Steelworker at Rock Bottom

Striker's Family Hails Walkout End

BY BOB POWELL

Lackawanna, N.Y.—A steelworker John Kowaluk said he would be glad if a court injunction halts the 88-day-old steel strike.

"Don't get me wrong. I don't want to see the union broken, but we all sure can use at least 80 days of work," he said in an interview Friday night.

"We've hit rock bottom and there are no signs of a let-up in the arguments," Kowaluk said.

If an injunction follows the President's invoking of the Taft-Hartley law Friday Kowaluk will be one of an estimated 25,000 Buffalo area Steelworkers back on the job for an 80-day cooling off period.

Figured 6-Week Strike

"We had an idea the strike would last about six weeks," Kowaluk said. "But we sure were wrong. Things are really getting tough."

Kowaluk, 28, is a tensile strength test machine operator at the Bethlehem Steel company's Lackawanna plant.

He lives with his wife, Caroline, 27, and Gary, their 4-year-old son, in a well-kept brick home about six blocks from the plant.

"We've had quite a time trying to make ends meet," Mrs. Kowaluk said.

"John's salary was $111 a week and now we are down to $45 weekly on unemployment insurance. It's not enough, and besides, that isn't going to last forever."

$1,500 Lost

They estimated the strike has set them back "about $1,500."

"We've spent all our savings," Kowaluk said. "We've cashed $700 in savings bonds since the strike began, and now we don't have any more to cash."

"Sometimes I wonder if it wouldn't be better to break away from steel work altogether," Mrs. Kowaluk said.

"You just don't do that," the husband said. "I've got eight years seniority and when we do work, it's good pay."

"We've got a few bills hanging," Kowaluk added. "But the merchants have been good about them. They know what is going on. But we still have to pay them when this thing gets settled," he said.

"We've hit rock bottom and there are no signs of a let-up in the arguments," Kowaluk said.

X-Ray Clue Sought in Mequon Probe

Mequon — Police Chief Robert Milke Friday night urged any physician who had an X-ray taken of Nancy Marie Ritchie, 6, of Milwaukee to get in touch with him.

The Ritchie girl and her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Ritchie, 41, disappeared last May 13 and Milke is trying to determine if Nancy could be the child whose dismembered body was found in a ditch here last Sunday.

Milke said that Charles Wilson, director of the state crime laboratory at Madison had reported that some of the bones found in the ditch showed old fractures which had knitted.

They raised the hope X-rays had been taken at the time of the fractures thus helping establish whether the dead child was Nancy.

John Brown's Raid, Hanging, Told in Article

A century ago this month, John Brown led a band of riflemen into a sleeping Harpers Ferry, Va., and took over the federal arsenal there. For 34 hours he held out against an aroused countryside, but the raid ended in bloody confusion—a complete failure. Six weeks later Brown was hanged.

In the Post-Crescent today, there appears an account of the execution more graphic than anything that appeared in print at the time of the event. It was penned by a well-known writer assigned by Harper's Weekly to cover the event, but suppressed when the editors decided it was too hot to handle.

On Monday and Tuesday of next week, the Post-Crescent will present a 2-part account of the raid itself in which the drama, bravery, cruelty and brief flashes of compassion demonstrated by both sides are described.

Turns Bus Into Bonfire

Crash Truck Driver Had Long Violations Record

North Brunswick, N.J.—Ten traffic violations mark the record of the truck driver who slammed into a bus Friday and turned it into a human bonfire.

Roscoe Poe, 54, Brooklyn, N.Y., was pried from the cab of his blazing truck on Rt. 1 here with his leg torn and his body burned.

The bodies of nine girls and a history professor, out of 41 bus passengers returning to Trenton State College after a night at a New York theater, were so badly charred it took eight hours to know who they were.

As Poe lay in fair condition in a Middlesex General hospital bed, authorities went through his record. This is what it showed:

Two convictions for speeding in New Jersey, one of them a few miles beyond the disaster scene on the same highway.

Five tickets in New York for passing a red light, passing another electric signal,

FCC Unable to Act on Rigged Shows on TV

Chairman Doerfer Tells Probers of Unit's Limitation

Washington — The Federal Communications commission told Congress today it can't do a thing about rigged television quiz programs.

FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer reported the commission's position in testimony before a house committee looking into rigging of some big-money questions and answer shows.

He said the FCC cannot:

1. Censor.
2. Interfere with freedom of speech.
3. Dig up the manpower to monitor all programs.

But the big question while Doerfer testified at an unusual Saturday meeting of the committee which had planned to wind up its inquiry yesterday still were:

1. Will Charles Van Doren, first big winner in quiz shows, accept a challenge to explain his role in the scandal-scarred "Twenty-One" program?

2. If Van Doren continues to ignore a pointed invitation to testify will the House legislative oversight committee order his appearance?

Doerfer didn't refer directly to any specific program in his testimony, but, under questioning about rigging of quiz shows said at one point:

"This is a fraudulent practice...it is a deception...but neither the prosecuting attorney in New York nor I have been able to pinpoint any violation of the law."

"We can't determine who has been harmed. The homeowner certainly didn't pay his way into the show."

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) opening today's hearing, said he considers the FCC testimony "the most pertinent part of our hearings." The subcommittee has aimed its hearing at determining whether federal regulation is adequately enforced or whether new legislation is needed.

Suspect Charges Revenge Motive

Milwaukee — John J. Watson, 38-year-old Milwaukee Negro denied Friday night that he killed Mrs. Edna Mauch, 57, in her suburban Wauwatosa home on Aug. 8 or 9, 1958.

Watson, testifying in his own behalf in a preliminary hearing on a charge of first-degree murder, said he did not kill the woman, adding "I could never be more sure of anything in my life."

Watson charged that witness who had testified against him earlier in the preliminary hearing before Dist. Judge Robert W. Hansen, made indecent overtures to him while both were prisoners at the Milwaukee house of correction late in the fall of 1958.

He said he pushed Harold G. Greer, 34, Milwaukee, away from him when the latter made the overtures and was told "You'll be sorry."

Calumet, Outagamie Farmers Could Lose That Much if Freeze Catches Sugar Beet Crop

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—The air force launched its versatile Atlas missile on an inter-continental range flight Friday night.

The 85-foot Atlas, a potent war weapon slated to shoulder the U.S. space burden, shot over the Atlantic on what appeared to be a perfect launch.

Across the state at Eglin air force base, a 47-foot Bomarc was destroyed because of technical difficulties seconds after launching and fell into the Gulf of Mexico.

This was the third test at the Cape for the big Atlas missile since it was declared operational last month. All three were aimed at improving accuracy.

New Machinery May Save Crop

London — With a summit conference high on the agenda, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan conferred today with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

The talks were the first with his foreign policy chief since Macmillan and his conservative party won a sweeping victory in Britain's parliamentary elections Thursday.

The prime minister has set an early summit parley as one of his first post-election tasks. He is expected to communicate quickly with President De Gaulle of France on arrangements for a top-level meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Macmillan conferred with Lloyd before setting out for his country home in Sussex for a quiet weekend.

He is expected to consider possible changes in his cabinet although no drastic shake-up appears likely.

The general expectation is that Lloyd will continue as foreign secretary at least through a summit conference proposed for late fall or this winter.

The most likely cabinet shift would remove Alan Lennox-Boyd as colonial secretary. He has held the post under three prime ministers and is known to be anxious to return to private business.

Most frequently mentioned to succeed him is Iain Macleod, the labor minister.

Macmillan told the nation Friday night that the sweeping election victory by his conservative party meant a clear-cut mandate "to play

Ike Names Fact Finders To End Steel Walkout

Pickets From Local 1271 of the United Steelworkers Union, Bob Geddis, Louis Pierro, Phil McLeod and James Wilson replace a strike sign at the gate of Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation in Pittsburgh; with headlines of a local newspaper after President Eisenhower invoked the Taft-Hartley law to break the deadlock in the 87-day-old steel strike.

President Uses Taft-Hartley To Halt Strike, Tells Board To Report to Him in Week

Washington — With Taft-Hartley law procedures under way to end the 87-day steel strike, a week or more may drift by before the crippling stoppage is halted.

President Eisenhower, in invoking the T-H law in the steel dispute Friday, gave an inquiry board a week to hold hearings and report back to him on the situation.

The hearings will open Monday afternoon. The board will hold an organization

Perishables Get Priority

Nearly Spoiled Cargos Handled At Gulf Ports

New York — Perishables continued to receive priority today as longshoremen loaded and unloaded a backlog of cargo that had accumulated during their 8-day strike.

Ports from Maine to Texas came back to life Friday as 85,000 dockers obeyed a federal court order enjoining the strike. Rain handicapped the operations at some Atlantic ports.

Priority was given 12 vessels that had arrived here and at southern ports with $30 million in perishables, mostly bananas. In some cases, the fruit was near spoiling. Shippers estimate the strike cost them about $160 million.

President Eisenhower invoked the Taft-Hartley law Tuesday against the International Longshoremen's association. A temporary restraining order was obtained here Thursday, is expected to complete the legal steps for a cooling-off period that will ban further striking by the ILA until Dec. 28.

Contract talks are scheduled to resume here Oct. 18, an engagement in Nevada.

Confers With Selwyn Lloyd

Macmillan Moves to Keep Vote Promises

London — With a summit conference high on the agenda, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has told President Eisenhower privately he favors quick western action to take advantage of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's current conciliatory attitude, informants said. Macmillan also fears too long a delay in setting up top-level talks could produce new international tensions.

The British consider November the best month to arrange a summit conference before the American presidential campaign begins to warm up.

Nature's Stompin' Up Some More Cold Air

Wisconsin — Turning cold northwest portion today. Cloudy with scattered showers northwest and turning colder southeast tonight. Sunday cloudy and colder, with a few showers or snow flurries in the northwest and extreme north.

Appleton — Temperatures for the 24-hour period ending 9 a.m. today: High 48, low 40. Temperature at 9 a.m. today 51, with discomfort index at 51. Barometer reading 30.00 inches with wind 11 miles from the south. Precipitation .03 inches.

Sun sets at 5:19 p.m.; rises Sunday at 6:02 a.m.; moon sets Sunday at 12:46 a.m. Prominent stars are Fomalhaut and Sirius. Visible planets are Jupiter, Saturn and Venus.

Sugar Beets in Outagamie and Calumet county are much like these on the Henry Van Dera farm, three miles east of Appleton. Most fields have water standing in them. Van Dera holds a beet just pulled from a puddle. If a freeze comes soon, farmers stand to lose nearly $5.5 million in sugar beet money if the crop is a total loss.

about potatoes rotting in the ground before harvesting can be completed.

Total estimated production in a territory covering the midwest states is down about per cent, the agricultural and resource department of Chicago and North Western Railroad reports.

Mos potato digging is finished in Waupaca county. Several farmers are unable to get at potatoes in marshlands because of bog conditions.

Costs High
"It's costing lots of money to get potatoes out," Les Laux, potato producer said.

"Special equipment, caterpillar tractors and work are getting them," he added.

"We're not so worried now about rain, but a freeze," he said. That could halt all digging. "Of course we're not as bad off as Antigo, with its heavy soil. Rain here goes right through this sand," he added. Wet conditions have caused some northern potatoes to have moisture cracks. Quality and yield have been good in Waupaca county, however.

Early cabbage and cauliflower in Outagamie county was poor, John Powers said. Heat and high humidity at the wrong time caused cabbage rot. Late varieties are coming fine. Picking of both is slow because of wet conditions.

The moisture, however, is good for the future. Farmers are assured of good soil moisture next spring. Lakes and streams, low since 1956, are returning to normal.

Broadcaster Gets Million For Foundation

New York — A radio broadcaster, whose foundation received a bequest of more than a million dollars in the will of a Connecticut widow, says he will try to invest the money wisely.

The bequest, in the form of 2,000 shares of General Motors stock came from Mrs. May Rockwell Page of Bristol, Conn., who died last Monday at the age of 88. She was the widow of De Witt Page, a GM vice president.

"Big Joe" Rosenfeld, Jr., who heads the "Happiness Exchange foundation," said yesterday that Mrs. Page was a "constant listener" to his WABC program, which goes on the air daily from midnight to 4 a.m.

Methodist Bishop Decries Mixing Politics-Religion

Boston — A Methodist Bishop John Wesley Lord says it would be sinful for Protestants to exclude Catholics from government positions on the basis of religion.

In an article in the national Methodist religious monthly "Together," the bishop wrote:

"It would be dangerous in a world like this to have it believed that because a man is a Roman Catholic he could not be elected to the presidency of this country."

"We know that in peace and war Roman Catholics have been among our most eminent citizens and have given themselves with abandon to the interests of our country."

He said it would be "sinful and a betrayal of our Protestant heritage for us to draw a line against or to exclude from any office in government or place in the national life a non-Protestant."

Madison — Possible uses of the abandoned Bong air base project in Racine and Kenosha counties will be discussed Monday morning at a meeting in the resident engineer's office at the base.

Income Tax Hike Urged by Nelson's Study Committee

Milwaukee — A revenue sources subcommittee of Gov. Gaylord Nelson's 19-tax policy group reported Friday night that if additional revenue is needed from income taxes it should come from an upward revision of personal income taxes rather than from a surtax.

The subcommittee, composed of six members, held an all day meeting in Milwaukee.

"We have milked the surface dry, just as we have the property tax," John C. Lobb, chairman of the group said.

He added that his group also believed that both personal and corporate income taxes should remain an important part of the tax structure.

Fans Follow Lanza's Coffin

Rome — Italian fans mingled with American residents of Rome at funeral services today for Mario Lanza.

The body of the American tenor, who died Wednesday, was carried to the church in a black and gilt carriage drawn by four black-plumed horses.

A funeral car carrying wreaths preceded the slowly moving carriage from Lanza's home, where he had lived with his wife and their four children, to the Church of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, about a mile away.

Gathered in the broad square in front of the red brick Roman Catholic church, one of Rome's newest, was a small crowd.

It was silent as the carriage, followed by automobiles carrying Lanza's grieving family and friends, arrived to the tolling of church bells.

All-Time High Hit for New U.S. Bonds

Washington — A revenue source subcommittee of Gov. Gaylord Nelson's 19-tax policy group reported Friday night that if additional revenue is needed from income taxes it should come from an upward revision of personal income taxes rather than from a surtax.

That's the rate set by investors Friday in the treasury's weekly auction of short term bills. The issue was $1,200,000 in bills that mature in three months.

A similar issue of bills last Monday was auctioned off at prices giving an average yield of 4.007 per cent. The previous record high was 4.259 per cent in March, 1933, when banks were closed by government order.

Oddly enough, the interest rate on the treasury's 6-month bills declined at the same time. Bids for a $400 million issue of 182-day bills averaged 4.666 per cent. This was down from last week's 4.678 per cent.

A few hours before, the treasury announced that more than 100,000 individual investors — attracted by the highest interest rate in 30 years — had snapped up $927 million worth of the treasury's new 5 per cent notes. These notes mature in four years, 10 months.

UN Fact-Finders Ponder Evidence For Laos Report

Vientiane, Laos — The United Nations fact-finding committee met today to determine the form of its report to the security council on charges of communist aggression in Laos.

The main question before the 4-nation committee is whether to simply enumerate the Laotian government's evidence or to include a commentary in the report.

Informed sources said such a commentary would support, to some extent, charges of direct or indirect aggression by communist North Viet Nam.

The committee, composed of Japan, Argentina, Italy and Tunisia, is expected to leave Laos Tuesday.

Whole Family of Yarn Dolls Made Easily Over Cardboard

BY CAPPY DICK

Did you ever try making a whole family of yarn dolls from the scraps of mother's knitting? It's easy to do. If you use pink, white or tan yarn for the bodies and bright-colored yarn for the clothes, the dolls will seem very real.

To make the father of the family, wrap the yarn around a piece of cardboard three inches wide and five inches long. A smaller cardboard, four inches long, will do for the mother and for the children; it should be only three inches long because they should be the smallest dolls of all.

Wrap the yarn at least 20 times around the cardboard as in Figure 1. The body color — pink, white or tan — should be wrapped first, then wrap the brighter colors over those strands.

Tie all the strands together at the top and turn the knot is made the same way, except inside. Cut the other end of each strand and remove them most of the strands ends from the cardboard. Tie a cut away, leaving several strands together at the waist, divide them into two bunches for the legs and tie the mat'yan to form the family's the end. The father doll will dog.

The DuPont Stock Case

The nation appears to have found a wise man in Federal Judge Walter J. Labuy of Chicago. Judge Labuy apparently has solved the 10-year-old legal problem relating to the disposition of 63 million shares of General Motors stock held by the E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company which had been through the Supreme Court and returned to Judge Labuy for appropriate action. The judge made it plain that his duty was "to frame a decree that will protect the public interest in a manner least disturbing to the economy, least harmful to the litigants and to the stockholders of the corporations involved."

Two things in the case made Judge Labuy's decision difficult. One was the insistence by the government that the DuPont company distribute the General Motors stock to the DuPont stockholders as a dividend. The distribution was spread over a 10-year period.

The second thing was the ruling by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that in the case of such a distribution, the individual stockholder would be taxed at the full market value of General Motors stock at the time of distribution. Thus he would be required to pay income tax on the stock he received ranging from 20 to 91 per cent depending upon his income. At the market price of $50 a share, the individual stockholders would be taxed from $8 to $43.50 for each share of General Motors stock they received. Quite obviously some of the large DuPont stockholders would be obliged to sell the stock received to get money to pay the additional taxes. Since this would tend to depress the market it appears likely that there would be a rush to sell the stock and thus the stocks of both General Motors and DuPont would suffer badly.

To avoid this threat to the general economy and the severe damage to the individual stockholders, Judge Labuy decided that the needs of the case would be met if voting rights of General Motors stock held by DuPont were distributed to individual DuPont stockholders. Thus there would be no distribution of stock and no flooding of the market. The judge has so decided the case and in the future neither the DuPont company nor two holding companies which hold large blocks of DuPont stock, and therefore would be eligible for voting rights in similar blocks of General Motors stock, will be allowed to vote any of the General Motors stock.

No officer or director of the DuPont company or of the two holding companies will be permitted to vote any General Motors stock nor will they be permitted to serve as officers or directors of General Motors. Further, the General Motors company will be prohibited from having as an employee any employee of the DuPont company or of its two holding companies.

It will appear to most persons that this ruling effectively eliminates any possibility of the control of General Motors by the DuPont corporation. That is or should have been the goal of the Department of Justice in the first place. At the same time this decision eliminates the threat of serious damage to the stockholders of these two great corporations which, of course, never should have been a part of the Department of Justice goal.

Rigged Quiz Programs Are News

A House committee under Rep. Harris (D-Ark.) has been digging up some very interesting material on the TV quiz shows that had the nation by the ears only a few months ago.

There has been a big effort in some quarters to shoo the House committee away from this task. Some people say that the committee is wasting its time digging into these old crooked quiz programs. But we do not agree. There has been no satisfactory finding about the quiz shows so far. People are pretty well satisfied they were crooked; at least some of them were crooked. But no one has put a finger on the culprits and there are people in the TV business today who are under suspicion and should either be cleared or convicted in the public opinion before this matter is dropped.

Herbert Stempel and James Snodgrass have testified before the committee that they were given answers in advance and were instructed on a dramatic presentation of the answers. Finally, they claim they were instructed on the questions they were to fail to answer when the shows needed a new champion. Snodgrass produced a letter postmarked May 11, 1957, which, he testified, he had written and mailed to himself after he had received the answers to quiz show questions. He had written the questions and the answers down and enclosed them in a letter sent by registered mail to himself. The letter has been examined by the New York City police laboratory and it came to the committee with the certification of the laboratory that it never had been opened before.

Since there probably was no crime committed and therefore no legal punishment for those involved in this fakery, many people have been inclined to put the whole matter aside and forget it. We think that would be unfortunate. The testimony of witnesses appearing before the House committee is something more than a confession. The statements involve many personalities who still are active in TV and others who are claimants to exceptional brilliance and memory. They have been largely accepted by the public as such. Some of them may have a good case but so long as this matter remains uninvestigated and clarified, there will be a cloud of suspicion hanging over each. That cloud can be removed by a thorough investigation by the House committee and the publication of its findings. If the suspicions are warranted, the public should know and if there is no evidence against these people their names should be cleared.

Who Sets the Interest Rates?

When some congressmen, including the Democratic majority, refused to lift the 4% per cent ceiling on government loans for periods over five years, they were posing as the protectors of the nation against the bankers and the money lenders. However, that identity now has been stripped from them.

The Treasury Department now is out to borrow $4,000,000,000. Half of this amount will be raised at the highest interest rate in 30 years. The department will offer $2,000,000,000 of 4-year, 10-month notes which will pay 5 per cent interest. This is the highest rate paid since 1929. Later this month the treasury will auction off $2,000,000,000 of 245-day tax anticipation bills. The investors will purchase these on bids. The bids will be for less than the face value and the discount will represent the effective yield or the interest rate.

Thus it will be seen that the interest rate on government loans is being set by the investors in the open market and not by Congress. The grand pose made by some congressmen was a very empty gesture. In fact it may have cost the government important money. Treasury officials have stated recently that they could have borrowed some of the money on a long term basis at less than 5 per cent interest if it were not for the ceiling of 4% per cent on all borrowings for more than five years. In rejecting President Eisenhower's request for the removal of this interest limit on long term loans, Congress actually made it necessary for the Treasury Department to pay more for money than it otherwise would.

Thus the prediction of Rep. John Byrnes of this district and others who supported President Eisenhower is being borne out by activity in the money market.

on their family insurance budgets. If so, it will be reflected on the streets and highways. Perhaps in time the reckless 10 per cent can be graded down, through thrift, to the reckless 5 per cent.

Mackinac Bridge Recalls Early History of Area*Scene of Many Battles and Fur TradingBY JACK RUDOLPH
Post-Crescent News Service

"Big Mac" is the current Glamour Boy of one of the most popular and historic vacation areas in mid-America. And with good reason. The spectacular suspension bridge spans the Straits of Mackinac is graceful as well as huge and as beautiful as it is useful. The construction of Big Mac also is another colorful chapter in the long, rich story of a region that has been making American history for nearly 300 years.

People today are apt to think of that history only in terms of Mackinac Island, dominating as it does the water "bridge" between Lakes Michigan and Huron. Most of the historic landmarks have been preserved there, yet the island is only the last of three communities that figure in the story of the straits. For a century before Mackinac Island entered the picture, St. Ignace and Fort Michilimackinac (now Mackinaw City) were successively centers of settlement.

Ancient Meaning

Mackinaw (pronounced Mackinaw but don't ask me why) is an abbreviation of the straits' traditional Indian name of Michilimackinac (pronounced mishli-etc.), a title so ancient its original meaning has never been accurately determined. The most common explanation is that it probably meant "Great Turtle" to describe the general appearance of the island.

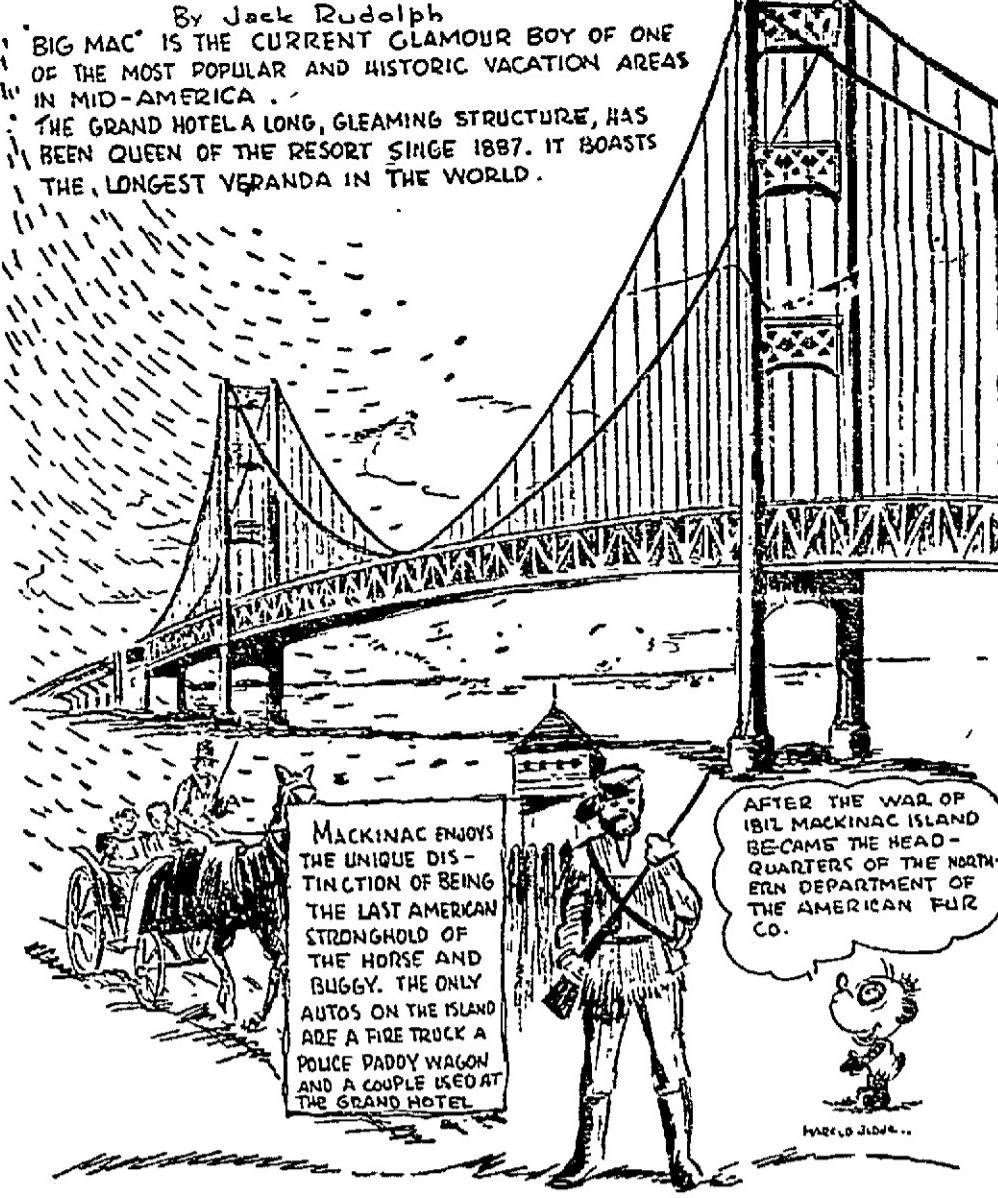

The white man's first foothold on the straits was established at St. Ignace by the Jesuit missionary Jacques Marquette in 1671 when he transferred his original mission of St. Ignatius from Sault Ste. Marie.

There is some controversy over the clerical status of Marquette but none whatever about his place in American history as co-discoverer and explorer of the upper Mississippi River.

Peaceful villages of Ottawa and Huron Indians grew up around the crude little wilderness church, beneath which Marquette was eventually buried, and it soon became a center of commerce between the Lakes tribes and itinerant French fur traders. St. Ignace was the hub of traffic to and from Lakes Superior and Michigan as well as the upper Mississippi valley, all of which funneled through the straits.

Military Garrison

Despite its commercial and strategic value, however, the French didn't get around to placing a military garrison there until 1688 or 1689. The tiny wilderness stockade was then called Fort Buade, in honor of the family name of Count Frontenac, greatest of all governors of New France. At one time or another many of Frontenac's successors and other early pioneers of Canada served there.

Fort Buade was evacuated in 1696 and the mission abandoned in 1705, but the spot was too important to be completely ignored. It continued to be used by outlaw French traders until it was reoccupied nearly a decade later.

When the French returned in 1712, however, they did not go back to St. Ignace, building instead a new fort on the south side of the waterway at what is now Mackinaw City. This was the famed Fort Michilimackinac around which so much middlewestern history was made.

Plan Restoration

Michilimackinac was a desolate and unpopular post

among the sand dunes on the upper Mississippi valley, all of which funneled through the straits. stroy the fort, however, and it was soon recaptured by the British. They continued to occupy and from it control the western Lakes region until halfway through the Revolution.

In 1779 George Rogers Clark captured the British outposts at Vincennes, Ind., and Kaskaskia, Ill., and defeated a counterattack from Mackinac. Clark's victory uncovered the rear of Fort Michilimackinac, which lived thereafter in imminent fear of an attack that never came.

For all its strategic importance Mackinac was wide open to a serious military threat from the land side. Although Clark didn't make one, the commander Capt. Patrick Sinclair, knew its weakness. In the winter of 1780-81 he abandoned the post and moved to a new base on Mackinac Island, previously ignored except by occasional hunting and fishing parties.

British Control

A small garrison held the midwest secure for France throughout the conflict with England for possession of North America until it was formally surrendered to the victorious British by Charles DeLanglade in 1761. Two years later the British garrison was surprised and massacred in the early phase of Pontiac's unsuccessful uprising.

The Indians did not destroy the fort, however, and it was soon recaptured by the British. They continued to occupy and from it control the western Lakes region until halfway through the Revolution.

In the 1870s Mackinac entered its present period as a summer resort. Many wealthy families built large summer homes on the island, most of which are still in use, and hotels began to spring up.

There are now nine hotels on the island, all clinging to a nostalgic turn-of-the-century grandeur that is, unfortunately, becoming threadbare, except for the Grand. The latter, a long, gleaming white structure, has been queen of the resort since its construction as a super-luxury establishment in 1887. It boasts the longest veranda in the world, the "purest air" (when the wind is not blowing from the stable area), beautiful grounds, a spectacular view and prizes to match.

Today Mackinaw enjoys the unique distinction of being the last American stronghold of the horse and buggy. Although automobiles are forbidden on the island they are beginning to infiltrate.

The fire department has a truck, the state police have a paddy wagon and there are a couple of others around the Grand Hotel — one of which, ironically, is used in the stable area — but these are not permitted on the roads.

expanded with members and volunteers. Not infrequently they join forces to encourage legislators and state agencies into more progressive public health measures.

The net effect of this tremendous voluntary organization and activity is difficult to measure precisely, but the results are obvious. Because of it Wisconsin is a better place in which to live.

Under the Capitol Dome*Much Work Back of State's Health RecordBY CHAS. H. CROWNHART
Secretary of the Wisconsin State Medical Society

Madison — There is both an art and a science in the preparation of a daily column such as John Wynaard's. While it is in a sense a kind of "behind the scenes" reporting, it must be accurate in its statement of facts, it must be reasonable in its statement of opinion, and after meeting those requirements, it has the supreme hurdle of being interesting and readable.

One finds that out when he accepts an invitation to fill in. And he immediately decides that being a columnist is something he would rather do than anything else. But here goes.

The State of Wisconsin, in its official capacity as a servant and protector of the public, operates a great many agencies and programs dealing with the protection of human life and the improvement of public health.

Behind these government functions with their multi-million dollar budgets and thousands of employees stands another force for public health — potent, pressing and effective. This is a veritable army of professional health personnel and lay health workers. They mobilize their strength through hundreds of local and statewide voluntary organizations.

ENFORCEMENT

Statutes prohibit the treatment of the sick or the practice of medicine without a license. Yet the State Board of Medical Examiners cannot possibly cope with enforcement through a single "investigator." In this case, organized anti-quackery programs of the State Medical Society and the Wisconsin Division of the American Cancer Society provides the law with 10,000 extra eyes and ears to detect and report cultists and fraudulent "cures."

Wisconsin has always been a leader in public health.

But a significant factor in this achievement is the relatively unpublicized, often

"behind the scenes," sometimes unrecognized efforts of a devoted body of health professionals and lay volunteers.

They give their own time and raise their own funds. Tax dollars are supplemented by dues and donations. Public payrolls are

Looking Backward*Work Progresses on Water Power

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Oct. 9, 1880.

We took a drive to the new water power with Judge Harriman and found about 100 men with teams corresponding, busily engaged in plowing and scraping the earth away from the canal at the Maple Grove street (S. Lawe street) crossing, and piling it on the bank south of the Richmond Paper Mills and around the office and warehouse connect-

has been removed north and nearer the mills and placed on a substantial stone foundation.

The structure for the new bridge was lying at the west end of the canal, all framed and ready for putting in, as soon as sufficient depth of excavation had been made.

We found Mr. Dennis Meidam in charge of the workmen, with Messrs. James McGillan and Hinchcliffe as sub-bosses, and they were economizing the time to the best advantage to push forward its completion as rapidly as possible before bad weather should intervene.

It is indeed, a beehive of industry, inspired by the push and energizing influence of Judge Harriman, who is the prime cause of the construction of this splendid addition to Appleton's famous water power.

regular 30 day

time payment
account

A Prange Time-Payment Account is a convenient way to budget major purchases — on monthly payment terms. No down payment is required. It's easy to arrange installment payments ranging from 3 months to 36 months . . . to fit your special needs and your particular budget.

P.R.C.A.

(Prange's Revolving Credit Account)

with flexible monthly payments

You simply decide your own usual monthly credit needs and then select the PRCA payment chart that fits your budget.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

Instead of a set limit on your PRCA balance, you may use extra credit limited only by your ability to pay. Your monthly payments vary according to your balance.

FOR EXAMPLE: If your PRCA is a $15-a-month account, refer to PRCA Chart C. Note that when your balance is any amount up to $180, your monthly payment is $15.

However, if your balance is larger than $180,

your monthly payments are correspondingly higher.

Village Board Plans Sewage Plant Talks

Special Meeting to be Held Monday With
Kimberly Engineer

Kimberly — The village board will hold a special meeting at 7 p.m. Monday with the village engineer and public works commissioner to begin study of improvements to the sewage disposal plant.

The community received notice from the federal government that aid amounting to about $32,700 was available to it for work to be carried out to enable Kimberly to cut down on pollution in the Fox river.

Preliminary plans for enlarging the plant, repairing and replacing worn equipment and other projects were submitted to the government prior to getting approval of the loan but now work will start on details of construction.

Plans call for the addition of pre-aeration basins into which air will be forced. Detailed plans are to be discussed for submission to the state and bids will be accepted after plans and specifications are approved.

California Student to Study Smoking

Berkeley, Calif.—Many California high school students will begin learning in classrooms this fall about cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

The study will become part of their regular classroom program, the California division of American Cancer society said Thursday, at its annual meeting.

The program is the first of its kind in the nation.

Dr. Sol R. Baker of Los Angeles, chairman of the society's California state education committee, said the program at first will reach more than 30 per cent of the state's secondary school pupils. He said almost all public and parochial high school students in San Francisco and in the Los Angeles metropolitan area will come under the program.

Dr. Baker said the program — supported by booklets, posters and film strips — will "clearly point out the risks that young smokers take of developing lung cancer in their later years."

"We are not anti-tobacco," Baker explained. "Our responsibility is to make available the facts as we know them, and let each individual determine for himself the course of action he wants to take."

Four KHS Students Named to County Teen Safety Council

Kaukauna — Four Kaukauna High school students are represented on the Outagamie Teenage Safety council. Two served in a similar capacity last year.

New members are Hope Goetzman and DeLyle Bowlers while Barbara Boyd and Mark Oliva are second year representatives. Meetings are held monthly and purpose of the club is to promote safe driving.

Little Chute Man Forfeits Bond for Drunkenness

Little Chute — Ronald Minnen, 21, 514 Cleveland avenue, Little Chute, forfeited bond of $20 when he failed to appear in justice court Thursday to answer to charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Minnen was arrested by village police Oct. 3 after a disturbance at his home.

New York Brightening Up Its Crime Areas

New York — New York is literally throwing a bright light on crime areas.

The city started Friday night floodlighting a number of playgrounds and parks considered loitering spots for teenage toughs.

First on the list was a neighborhood playground on Manhattan's west side where two teenage boys were killed last month by a group of marauding gang members. Powerful mercury lamps were installed on each side of the play area.

Installation of brighter lights in 20 areas over the next six weeks was authorized at a cost of $100,000. The program is to be extended if a decline in crime results.

Legion Women Aid Retarded

Little Chute Group Schedules Public Card Party Nov. 15

Little Chute — Members of the American Legion auxiliary have scheduled a card party to raise funds for the county retarded children's program at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 15 at St. John's High school, Little Chute.

Working on the project will be Mrs. Alma Kildonk, Mrs. Willard Zarnow, Mrs. Paul Dercks, Mrs. Harold Vandenberg, Mrs. Casey Van Boxtel and Mrs. Reginald Hermse.

The child welfare committee reported it had purchased eye glasses, clothing and shoes for needy children in the village during September. Plans were outlined for the annual Christmas party Dec. 10 at the village hall.

St. John Grid Team Will Meet Pacelli Sunday

Little Chute — St. John High school will try to get back on the victory trail Sunday afternoon playing at Pacelli, Stevens Point.

With their unbeaten streak severed at 19 by Premontré of Green Bay last week, the Chuters under Coach Bill Fitzpatrick will try to get another string going.

Pacelli scored an early season victory over Hortonville and then lost to St. Mary's Menasha, 26 to 7. In their latest outing the Point school beat Wausau Newman, 13 to 13.

St. John has wins over St. Mary Springs of Fond du Lac and Kimberly while tying Abbott Pennings of DePere. The only loss was to Premontré.

Mrs. Clarence Schiltz was named leader; Mrs. Joseph Haupt, assistant leader; Mrs. Lester Driedrich, chairman of the program planning committee and Mrs. Norman Reybroek and Mrs. Henry Kuhn, troop committee members.

Mrs. Florian DeGroot will serve as badge chairman and Mrs. Ed Spierings will be cookie chairman. The majority of the year will be having intermediate scouts work toward meeting second class rank requirements, according to the leader.

An autumn hike will be scheduled later this fall.

Lesson in English

Words often misused: Do not say, "He speaks with a slow drawl." This is a redundancy. Inasmuch as "drawl" means a slow tone, omit "slow" from the sentence.

Often misspelled: Disassemble (to take apart). Dissemble (to feign; disguise).

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: pragmatic; of or pertaining to the affairs of a community or state. (Accented second syllable). "The mayor of the town would talk of nothing but pragmatic events."

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

AP Newsfeatures

Father Paul James Francis knelt on the summit of a mountain overlooking the Hudson River at Garrison, N. Y. and dedicated it to the service of God. He called it the Mount of Atonement. On it he founded a religious society 60 years ago.

First from a leaky shed, he and his fellow friars and sisters administered to the physical and spiritual needs of the destitute men who climbed the mountain and asked for help. None was turned away. Sometimes the last piece of bread was shared with an unfortunate.

Father Paul has passed on but his charity lives today. Between the impressive buildings of Graymoor's summit monastery and valley convent, big St. Christopher's Inn stands in place of the shed and its door is open to all regardless of race, color or creed.

Three Calumet Cities Exempt From Tax Levy

Retarded Costs Now Limited to Areas of Superintendent

Chilton — City school districts under a new state law are exempt from county-wide levies for retarded school instruction unless the cities take action to permit the levy. Chilton, Brillton and New Holstein are affected in Calumet county. Last year Calumet county spent $6,888, this year through Oct. 1 the cost was $7,477.

Members of the education committee of Calumet county board of supervisors and F. J. Flanagan, county superintendent of schools, discussed Thursday the effects of the revised state law. Arthur Weber, town of New Holstein, is chairman and George Schwaback, Jr., town of Harrison, and John Leach, Stockbridge, are members of the committee.

Up to now, the Chilton classes which serve the county, one at the high school and the other at the city hall, have been operated on a county wide tax levy. Twenty pupils are enrolled.

The law creates a handicapped children's education board consisting of from three to five members to be appointed by the chairman of the board of supervisors or elected by the board according to its own rules.

The educational board will in turn appoint an advisory committee of school administrators representing the area served.

Flanagan said the handicapped children's board very likely will be named at the annual session of the board of supervisors in November at which time the education committee will present its findings and make recommendations.

Fire Damages Farm Home

Marion — One wall of the Cecil McNinch home, 1½ miles west of Big Falls on County Trunk G, was damaged in a fire at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Marion firemen said most of the damage was between the porch and living room walls. They extinguished the blaze in about 1½ hours.

Defective wiring may have started the blaze, firemen reported. Some smoke damage resulted.

Fire Prevention Week Was the occasion for a visit to the fire house for the Weyauwega kindergarten class. From the left, the youngsters marveled at the 1907 model horse-drawn cart and leather fire buckets kept on exhibit and used in parades; heard Fire Chief William Lawrence explain the use of the jackets in water rescue work, and then showed their teacher, Mrs. Margaret Paschke, their impressions. The latter group included, from the left, Jimmy Prideaux, Gene Morey and Jean Mortenson.

Board Studies Pupil Rise

Enrollment Figure Poses Problems at Hilbert Schools

Hilbert — The high school board of education has started a study of problems arising from increased enrollment. Advice has been sought from the state department of public instructions.

A board survey discovered inadequacies in the hot lunch facilities. The school is feeding 155 pupils daily in a room with seating capacity of 48.

Other inadequacies uncovered included an out-dated science room, the lack of a suitable audio-visual room and a room that is used simultaneously as a classroom, library and study hall.

The board believes the increase of 20 pupils as indicated by the school census will necessitate the construction of an addition to the school. Board members and a Manitowoc architect visited Madison to confer on plans and financing with the state superintendent.

No definite action has been taken.

William R. Shattuck, Clinton, Wis., has accepted a contract to teach science and social studies at the high school. He replaces Miss Helen Williams, who was dismissed, by illness, to cancel her contract.

Youngsters Thrilled With Visit

Weyauwega Kindergartners Study Fire Prevention

Weyauwega — Picture stories in its weekly reader relating to fire prevention and firemen initiated a study of fire prevention by the kindergartners.

The youngsters were guests of Fire Chief William Lawrence at the fire station. There they learned how fires were called in to the station, how directions to the fire were quickly gathered and the types of equipment necessary for all kinds of emergencies.

The children saw equipment used in 1907, now reserved for parades. It was horse drawn and carried leather pails for the fire fighters' use. A pumper truck and a hook and ladder truck are now in use.

Special equipment for grass fires and those involving LP gas were explained to the visitors. Neat rows of fire hats, rubber slickers and rubber boots stood in readiness for the arrival of the volunteer firemen. Life jackets and asbestos suits, also, are available for special types of emergencies.

Perhaps the biggest thrill the children received was the opportunity to climb in the driver seat and take the wheel of the pumper truck. The gift of fire prevention stamps was also treasured by the youngsters.

The children's impressions of their visit were recorded in crayon drawings. They fashioned fire hats and firemen's badges from paper bags.

Experiments were used to illustrate the three elements of fire, fuel, heat and oxygen. Rubbing hands together and using sand paper on wood demonstrated the heat. A candle illustrated what happened when oxygen was removed. How fire always burns upward was shown as the teacher changed the position of a burning match.

Safety rules were listed by the youngsters to instill in them the need for their help in the prevention of fires.

An in-service teacher training program was begun this fall. The school board and a planning group are working toward school expansion. The kindergarten problem was solved by addition of another room for kindergarteners this fall.

The report commended Waupaca for its steps toward supervisory activities.

Valders Holds Lead Slot In Eastern State Loop

Brillion Loses
20 to 7 in
Grid Thriller

Waupaca Goal Stand Spoils Manawa Try

BY DON KAMPFER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Chilton — Valders kept its Eastern Wisconsin league lead Friday night by downing Don Hoff's up-coming Brillion Lions 20 to 7. Brillion became the first league team to score against the Vikings. Chilton kept pace a half game behind by nudging New Holstein 12 to 7 and Plymouth beat Kiel 39 to 7.

A 45 yard run with a screen pass by Valders' Brunner on the first Viking play from scrimmage was the big play in a 62 yard touchdown drive capped when Bill O'Grady went over from the five. The 6 to 0 lead remained throughout the first half.

In the fourth period Valders was given possession on a disputed fumble on the Brillion 13. After holding for three downs Glaeser took a short pitch on the seven and scored to give the Vikings a 12 to 0 lead.

Brillion narrowed the gap in the third period when a 37 yard touchdown pass from Krzinesky to Ron Hanson culminated a 73 yard march. Dave Krueger ran for the extra point to put the score at 12-7 going into the final minutes.

The Vikings scored again in the fourth period when Brunner scored from two yards out to cap a 56 yard drive.

Al Puser, Dick Fischer and Gary Moore were defensive standouts with Puser along with Ken Belanger sparkling the offense which outgained their victorious opponents 243 yards to 185.

Brillion gained 72 in the air to 48 by the opposition and held a 171 to 140 yard edge rushing. First downs were almost even with the victors holding a 10 to 9 edge.

Reedsburg Stays Unbeaten; Freedom Tops Winneconne

LITTLE NINE CONFERENCE

Friday's Results:

Hortonville 12, Wrightstown 6.

Reedsburg 20, Omro 6.

Freedom 12, Winneconne 6.

Hortonville — The Hortonville High school football team Friday afternoon handed Wrightstown its first loss of the season and knocked the Tigers out of a co-share of the Little Nine conference lead.

The Polar Bears won, 12-6, on a first-quarter touchdown by halfback Lon Kringle and a third quarter score by Larry Collar. Bob Geysor scored in the final period for the Tigers, who previously had won three Little Nine games and tied a non-league foe.

Hortonville started its upset mission with a 60-yard drive in the first quarter.

Kringle swept end for the final 10 yards after a pass interference penalty had put the ball on the 10.

A 26-yard pass play, quarterback Gary Kohl to end Jim Rathack, moved the Polar Bears to the Tiger 2 in the third quarter. Kohl then hit Collar in the end zone.

Wrightstown took the aerial route for most of its 60-yard march. Geysor ran the final 10 on a draw play, with about 4 minutes left in the game.

A strong running game helped the Polar Bears post a yardage edge. Hortonville completed seven of 18 passes, while Wrightstown made good on six of 15.

Omro Bows, 20-6

Reedsburg — Rollie Zipperer scored two touchdowns as unbeaten Reedsburg High school defeated Omro, 20-6, Friday to take over the undisputed Little Nine conference football lead.

In the second quarter, Omro recovered a Panther fumble on its own 1-foot line. A poor punt, however, gave Reedsburg possession on the 10-yard stripe. On the first play, Zipperer scored on an end-around and also took a pass from Ron Hynek for the extra point.

Chilton Wins New Holstein Homecoming

New Holstein — Chilton barely edged a fired up homecoming hungry crew of New Holstein Huskies 12 to 7 Friday night after an illegal procedure penalty nullified what would have been the winning touchdown for the hosts.

Foiled Attempt

Later in the period Bartel foiled a Chilton touchdown when he nailed Mike Hoffmann on the New Holstein seven. Hoffmann carried 73 yards around left end.

New Holstein's Wiemer picked up a Chilton fumble near midfield in the second period and ran to the two. Klapperich went over on his second try and converted to put New Holstein out in front 7-6 at half. The lead was gained without benefit of a first down and 21 yards from scrimmage.

The Tigers muffed a scoring opportunity in the third period when they recovered a fumble on the New Holstein 24. A staunch defense held and New Holstein took over on its 14.

Punt Exchange

Chilton scored on the exchange of punts when Joe Kettler picked a bobbed boot out of the air and scored from 15 yards out to give the Tigers a 12-6 lead.

With less than two minutes left in the contest the Huskies got their big break when they recovered a Chilton fumble on the Tiger 22. A pass play put the ball on the Tiger six and gave New Holstein its first down from scrimmage.

With third and goal on the two a quarterback sneak put the ball over for what seemed to be the winning TD. But an illegal procedure penalty nullified the play and put the ball back on the seven. The Tiger defense stiffened and Chilton took over on downs running the clock out.

Alert Jays Topple Raider Squad 27-6

Recover 5 Fumbles; Steal 3
Passes in Earning First M-E
Win; Lead 20-0 at Halftime

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Menasha — Menasha scored more points in the first half (20) Friday night than it did in its previous three games (13) and rambled to an easy 27-6 win over Two Rivers at Butte des Morts field.

The victory was the first in four starts for the Jays and gives a 1-2 conference record, the same as the visitors.

The Jays were 100 per cent improved over previous efforts while Two Rivers, which was supposed to be an improving team, was equally as unimpressive. The losers did not score until the final period when the hosts had their second and third stringers in the ball game.

In breaking into the win column, the Jays played mighty alert football. They recovered five of Two Rivers' six fumbles and picked off three passes, taking one all the way for a touchdown.

The contest was loaded with freakish plays, probably more than will be found in the next dozen games. On Menasha's first touchdown, about a 54-yard pass play from Jim Stenson to Dave Ristau, the ball went through the latter's arms and into those of Halfback Bill Gerhard who was next to him. The latter went the final 20 yards.

Lose Touchdown

Still in the first period, Bill Ritchie went 30 yards for what seemed to be a touchdown but the play was called back because an official inadvertently blew his whistle on the 20. Then in the second frame, a pass bounded off a Two Rivers boy's helmet into Ristau's hands for a 9-yard gain.

The statistics showed the Jays with 112 yards by rushing although some observers will swear to it that they got more. They garnered 88 in the first half but only had 24 net in the second. At one point on five straight plays the Two Rivers defense stiffened to throw the Jay ball carriers for losses.

The Raiders wound up with 108 yards rushing but got only 39 yards in seven plays for their third touchdown. The drive, midway in the second quarter, included two passes, the second from Stenson to Ristau carrying from the 24 to the 4 from where Bill Ritchie powered through the middle. Gerhard's kick was wide.

A scoreless third period saw the Jays recover two fumbles and lose the ball once themselves on an interception.

With a couple of minutes gone in the final segment, Ritchie intercepted a pass on the Raider 45 and ran almost unmolested down the sidelines to tally. Gerhard's kick hit the goal post but went over.

Raiders Tally

Two Rivers returned the next kickoff to its 40 and running against Menasha re-plays. John Boutin tallied for the three. Emery Panosh's kick was wide.

Later in the frame, Two Rivers blocked a Menasha punt on the latter's 22 but on the first play it handed the ball back to the hosts on a fumble.

The Jays played without Bob Cook, senior guard, who had a muscle spasm. His spot was capably filled by his sophomore brother, Jim.

Summer Films Drew Better Than Ever

10 Best Made Up to 160 Per Cent
More Money Than Average Movie

BY JINGO

Hollywood's 10 top drawing movies during the dog days of summer made 75 to 160 per cent more at the boxoffice this year than the average picture during the last 10 years.

Mike Connelly, tinsel town columnist, reports this after a peek at the major studios' bookkeeping records.

The top 10, in the order of their moneymaking: "Hercules," "Hole in the Head," "North by Northwest," "The Nun's Story," "Anatomy of a Murder," "Darby O'Gill," "Blue Denim," "Say One for Me," "The Horse Soldiers" and "Middle of the Night."

Speaking of films, "Embezzled Heaven," the German-made Franz Werfel story, met with extreme critical success at a special Jingo showing to Catholic clergy recently at the Appleton theater. It's booked for theaters in this area later in the month.

The story's about a woman who pays a nephew's way through priesthood studies solely because she thinks he surely will help her get to heaven.

She discovers too late she's been swindled of her money by the roguish relative and finally makes a pilgrimage to Rome, hoping it will serve as an act of reparation for her own selfish sinfulness.

Jingo Lingo: Richard Adler's "Sun Day Showcase Theme" has been chosen a "best bet" by Cashbox magazine. He's the composer of lyrics for "Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees". Lew Ayres may return the old "Dr. Kildare" series to the public—as a TV series. He'd play a combination of the young doctor he played and the crotchety old Dr. Gillespie which Lionel Barrymore handled in the original movies.

Desi Arnaz goes strictly dramatic in "So Tender, So Profane," the "Desilu Playhouse" story for Oct. 30. Insiders say he's so good he may enter the histrionic market permanently. . . . Ruth and John Conte reportedly are preparing an afternoon TV show to replace their defunct "Matinee." It'd be called "At Home with the Contes" and feature Jack Oakie talking with old-time film stars about the good old days.

Sunday night's the night for Ian Turner's appearance on Milton Berle's special. Other guests will be Peter Lawford and Danny Thomas. . . . Also the night for Art Carney, Carl Reiner, Zsa Zsa and Pat Boone to join Dinah Shore. . . .

Week-Old Caroline Rudd poses with her talented parents at the family's New York home. Mamma is television pitchwoman and actress Julia Meade, and papa is commercial artist Worsham O. Rudd.

Sunday morning, NBC radio's "Monitor" will carry the first of several tapes prepared by the Lawrence college band. Fred G. Schroeder's outfit is booked for sometime between 1:30 a.m. and noon, Eastern time. You interpret it.

British Girl Picked to Star in 'Pollyanna'

New Version of Old Pickford Role Normal Teenager

BY BOB THOMAS

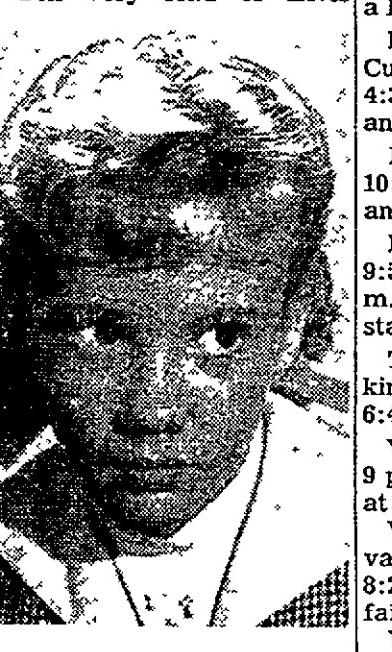

Hollywood — Is the 1959 "Pollyanna" a quiet, mousey little girl who is too good to be true? No, she is a pleasant teenager who is so normal she likes Elvis Presley.

I learned this upon getting acquainted with 13-year-old Harley Mills, talented daughter of British Star John Mills and authoress Mary Hayley-Bell. The girl has the best star-making role for a youngster since the Shirley Temple heyday. Hayley plays "Pollyanna" in the new Walt Disney version of the Eleanor H. Porter classic.

More Believable

But she isn't the same Pollyanna portrayed by Mary Pickford a generation ago.

"Oh, no," said pretty young Hayley. "Our Pollyanna isn't the same as in the book. She was too sickeningly sweet. If you met any girl like that to-

Hayley Mills

Presley," she commented. "He wasn't so good in 'Love Me Tender,' but he was marvelous in 'King Creole.' I like Kookie, too, and I'm crazy about Fabian. We haven't had Fabian in England yet, but we will. The girls will love him."

Hayley is normal enough to enjoy acting, but her beginning in films was strictly an accident. A British director came to the Mills farm in Surrey to sell Hayley's father on a role in "Tiger Bay." He met the girl and decided she was perfect to play the role of an orphan who witnesses a murder.

Both Mills did the film and Hayley earned an award from the Berlin film festival for her first performance. Though she played a lying minx in the film, she caught the eye of Disney as the girl he needed for "Pollyanna." He now terms her the finest young talent to appear in Hollywood in 25 years.

Shakespeare Festival Grosses $542,408 in Big 14-Week Season

Stratford, Conn.—(AP) The American Shakespeare festival grossed $542,408 in its 14-week summer season, the highest total achieved since the project began five years ago.

The plays performed were "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "Romeo and Juliet" and "All's Well That Ends Well."

'Plume de Ma Tante' To Tour Country

Dust Mop Cover

A unique new cleaning aid, now available in local stores, promises to completely change your ideas about that old standby, the dust mop. It's called One-Wipe Specially Treated Dust Mop Cover, a sturdy, specially treated envelope-type cloth that fits easily and snugly over any size or shape dust mop head. The special treatment helps you pick up and hold dust from walls, woodwork, and floors without scattering it.

Perhaps the nicest feature of this new cleaning aid is the fact that it's washable. The dust mop cover is reversible, too—when one side gets dirty, you can simply turn it inside out and use both sides before laundering.

Pin Star Designs Bowling Fashions

BY KATHLEEN REARDON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Designing bowling fashions for women is what Mrs. Marion Ladewig, seven times named "Woman Bowler of the Year," does in her spare time. Mrs. Ladewig was in Appleton Thursday afternoon for an exhibition and clinic at Hahn's Bowling alleys.

The sprite woman began designing sport clothes about a year ago. Some of her styles have been on the market for two months, but none in the Wisconsin area. She has introduced slim pants and Bermuda shorts to the bowling scene, as Gussie Moran introduced her lace tennis shorts, to the tennis audience. However, she confines most of her styles to dresses, skirts and blouses.

Lives in Michigan
Mrs. Ladewig lives in Grand Rapids, Mich. "I'm there only about three or four weeks of the year, though," she added. When she's in Grand Rapids, she visits with her daughter and two grandchildren and relieves her daughter of her housekeeping chores, which she doesn't have a chance to do herself when she is touring.

Mrs. Ladewig started bowling in 1937 and began touring the United States giving exhibitions and clinics in 1950. The tours have taken her all over the country; however, she prefers the west and especially California.

When Mrs. Ladewig isn't bowling she can be found on the golf course indulging in her favorite hobby. "I like

Brillion CYO Gives Opinions on Youth; Working for Code

Brillion—A Catholic Youth organization meeting was held Thursday at St. Mary Catholic school to voice opinions on today's youth.

The Christian Mothers Society executive board, directed by the Rev. Raymond Schauer, conducted the meeting for the 1958 and 1959 graduates of St. Mary school.

Buzz sessions revealed possible standards for teen-age dating, dress, recreation and use of automobiles.

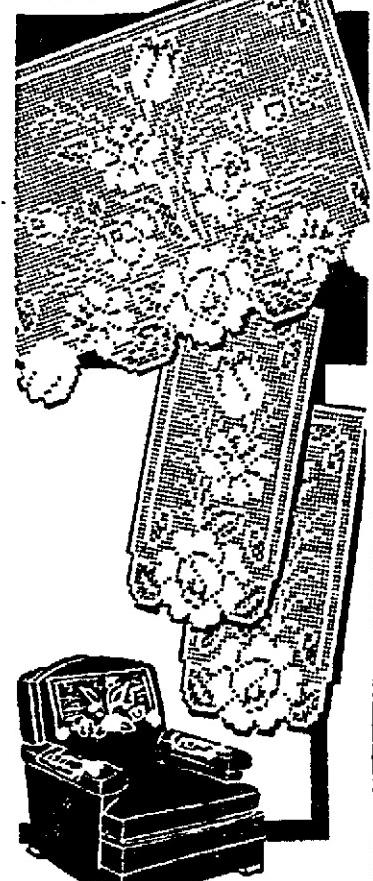

At an open Calumet county deaconry meeting to be held at New Holstein, Nov. 1, delegates from Brillion will take part in a panel of teenagers and parents. Delegates hope to set up a code which will be printed and distributed to each home.

Sue Wittman, Charles Miller, LuAnn Tienor and Erick Enneper will serve on the panel.

Members of the Christian Mothers society who helped with arrangements were Mrs. Willard Coonen, Mrs. Romy Tikalsky, Mrs. Emil Tienor, Mrs. Hal Deitrich, youth chairman, Mrs. Al Puser, Mrs. Frank Bohman and Mrs. Delos Reynolds.

meeting people and that is why I enjoy doing this kind of work," she said.

Likes Shopping

She travels by plane from city to city with a representative of a sporting equipment company which sponsors her tour. When she is in a city long enough she likes to shop and browse through the stores.

In 1957 Mrs. Ladewig was the world's invitational match game champion. She also is seven times Bowling Proprietors Association of America national match game list and the Women's International Bowling congress all events champion in 1950 and 1955.

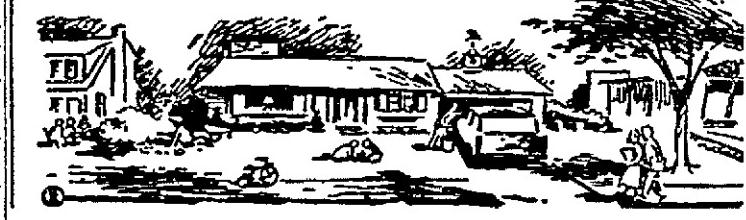

Mrs. Ladewig has many other credits to her honor. She is the only woman in bowling history to win city, state and national all-events titles in the same year, 1951. She was named by Helms foundation as Michigan's woman athlete of all time.

Her high game is 288, top series is 742, and she holds a 190 average.

Mrs. Marion Ladewig, national bowling star who designs bowling clothes as a sideline, was in Appleton Thursday conducting a bowling clinic. She is shown giving a few tips to Mrs. Vernon Coopman and Mrs. Robert Jensen, Appleton.

Family Diary

When Bruce's well-paying summer jobs ended, he not only took back his paper route, which he had loaned to Tommy and an older friend, but announced that he had to have a Saturday job as well.

John and I were anything but keen about his giving up his Saturday mornings—last year he had spent them in the science lab at school—but Bruce insisted it was necessary. Practically all of the money he made on his paper route, he reminded us, was going into his college fund and he simply had to have another source of income to make necessary improvements on his hot-rod, the Golden Dragon.

Although John and I had both disapproved of Bruce's buying the car in the first place, although we had known no good could come from it, weak-mindedly we had given in.

And now it was too late for regretting. If Bruce was to keep the Golden Dragon, he had to support it, and the next Saturday morning, looking quite presentable in a clean pair of wash pants and a good blue shirt, he disappeared down our drive in a cloud of vaporous fumes on his way to look for a job.

I spent a rather uneasy morning. The men wanted column which Bruce had clipped from the paper, though listing an infinite variety of jobs for men, offered few if any possibilities for 16-year-old boys. In fact, I was mentally rehearsing the cheerful speech I would make if he returned home disheartened when the phone rang.

Wastes No Time
It was Bruce and he wasted no time on preliminaries. "I've got a job!" he exulted. "At the Straight Flush company. I haven't found out yet what I'm going to do, but they want me to start work right away. Don't look for me till late afternoon."

With this meager news I had to contain my soul in patience until almost 5 o'clock when Bruce got home.

Even then, details were not once forthcoming. In fact, a good deal of the enthusiasm he had evinced over the phone seemed to have disappeared as he explained that the Straight Flush company was neither a manufacturer of playing cards (my guess) or a plumbing outfit (John's) but a magazine distributing concern. Bruce's particular job, for which he was paid $1.25 an hour, consisted of bundling up stacks of magazines to be delivered to various stores who sold them and bundling up other stacks of magazines which had been returned to the distributor unsold.

'It's Job'
"I don't know why you look so gloomy," I said briskly. "You're not making as much money as you did this summer but you're not working as hard either. I think you're lucky..."
"Jeepers, Mom!" Bruce interrupted, "it's not the money

it's the job! All day long tying up bundles of gruesome comics. Comics . . . junk! 'Milo, the Monster,' 'The Spectre kids are buying and reading it."

A fraction of a smile twitched the corner of my mouth.

"But, Bruce . . . it wasn't so very long ago that you were reading comics yourself.

Maybe not these particular ones,

but some that I'm afraid were just as bad."

Disconcerted for a second,

he quickly regained lost

ground. "That's not my fault

"and I can assure you that my children won't read them."

With amusement and love I watched him as he stalked to-

nor boy, but a curious mixture of each. Intellectual maturity

Educator Reflects On Columbus Day

BY ANGELO PATRI

Once again we have reached Columbus, a man or a woman who thinks differently from the accepted belief of the day and who, against great odds, battles his way to prove his thinking correct. To do this he endures the scorn of the comfortably seated majority, suffers poverty, endures hardships, material and spiritual until he manages by sheer power of his spirit to win his goal.

Value To Generation
There is never a time in the span of life on this earth when there is nobody, no man, no woman, struggling to create the most important phase of his adventure. The really important part of it was Columbus' insistence on the possibility of his accomplishment. The world will never be without its Columbus. It is this idea, the dream, of a small round World about which he could shorten the trade routes, enrich his generation, and most of all, prove himself right in his belief.

Every generation has its

a highly important, most valuable person in his generation. He should be given a hearing, always, lest he be that angel with a message that has come to bless mankind.

Too often this messenger has been shunned, the door shut in his face, his ideas hooted down, his burden increased by the very ones he would help. That seems to be the lot of such messengers, the price they must pay for their hope and faith, and they somehow endure to a triumphant end. It is on the wings of such spirit that mankind has been borne to successive heights of material and spiritual riches.

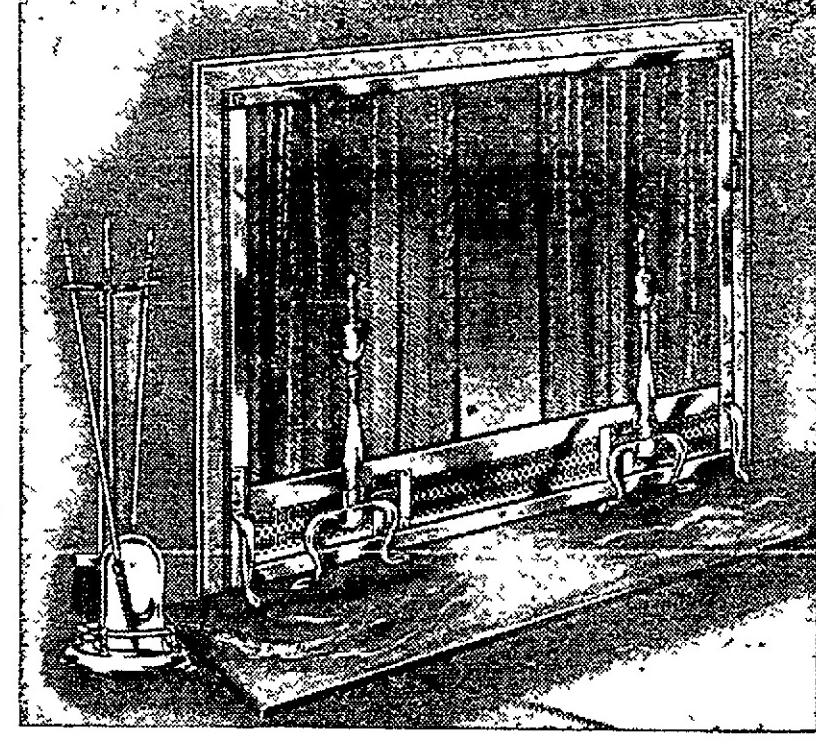

On this day, when we bow to the spirit of Columbus, we would do well to remind the children of the long line of such men and women who pioneered, dreamed, endured that they might, one day, enjoy a richer and more satisfying life.

* * * Angelo Patri offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning child training. If you would like to have his leaflet P-22, "Relationships to Other Children," send 10 cents in coin to him, care of the pioneer, the dreamer, is New York 19, N. Y.

Card Game Ends Late For Hostess

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening my husband and I asked some friends in to play Canasta. We played two games. At the end of the second game I was ready to put the cards away and serve refreshments. However, one of the guests suggested that we play another game. Not wanting to be rude I said all right, and so we played another game. By the time the third game ended and the refreshments were served, it had grown quite late — much later than I like to stay up. I would like to know if it would have been proper to say "no" when this guest suggested playing a third game?

Answer: If they were intimate friends and you were really very tired, you certainly could have said, "I'm awfully tired tonight, let's not play any more," or "Jim has to get up so early, I must get him to bed." But if they were more or less formal friends and apparently wanted to play, there was nothing for you to do but play.

Affected Mannerism

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is proper to hold a tea or coffee cup with the little finger held out and curled at the end? I have a friend who does it and thinks it is quite the thing. I think it is affected and in bad taste.

Answer: You are quite right, in fact the mannerism you describe is often sighted as an example of most affected bad taste.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-7, entitled "Wedding Anniversaries," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E.P., care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

Lawrence Coeds From the third floor of Ormsby hall won first place in the traditional homecoming pajama parade Friday evening when they took a leaf from the book of Mary Martin and washed their hair in buckets on the stage. The song which accompanied the soapy act announced that they would "Wash Beloit Right Out of Our Hair." At is conclusion, they gave the 1959 Viking team, seated below the stage, a liberal splashing. Another highlight of the winning South Pacific act was a hula performed in authentic muu-muus, led by Marjorie Middleton, Oahu, Hawaii.

When the Freshman Pajama parade was begun years ago as a part of homecoming activities at Lawrence college, nightwear hung directly to the ankles, and not an inch of limb was exposed. With the advent of the "shorty", however, the impression is that of a chorus line, which these coeds representing the first floor of Ormsby hall, were quick to realize. The group performing above on the stage of Memorial Chapel tied for third place in the annual contest Friday evening.

Opening lead — S 4

When this hand came along in the national team championships a couple of months ago, our opponents were a very keen young group of Chicago experts. This was just as well for us since we couldn't have done much with this hand against mediocre opponents.

I opened the four of spades from the West hand. I wasn't fond of the lead then, and the passage of time has not endeared it to me. It was just a choice of evils.

Declarer played the seven of spades from dummy, and my partner finessed the eight of spades without seeming to give the matter thought. It will not surprise tournament fans to know that this fine play was made by Edgar Kaplan.

South won with the king of spades and, rather naturally, came to the conclusion that my opening lead had been fourth-best from a suit headed by jack-10. If this were the case, he could win four spade tricks by taking two finesses through me.

Returns Spade

With this idea in mind South immediately returned a spade towards dummy. His intention was quite clear, and in the meantime I had been thinking with my opponent's brain. He wanted to finesse through my spade honors? All right, I would give him every opportunity.

For this reason I played the 10 of spades at the second trick. South nodded his head sagely and won in dummy with the queen of spades. Evidently I had "split" my spade honors in the hope that declarer had only one low spade.

Declarer took a diamond finesse, losing to the king, and I returned a heart to the king. Now South led his last spade and finessed dummy's nine. His face was a study when East won with the jack of spades!

We lost no time taking our heart tricks to defeat the contract. "You'll read about this in the papers," I said sympathetically to South.

"Don't bother to mention my name," he sighed.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S-10 6 4, H-A 10 9 5, D-K 10 8, C-10 8. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts.

The show of trumps may be enough to help partner bid a sound game. (Copyright 1959)

Ivy That Lacks Tendency to Vine Now Readily Available

By Katherine B. Walker

Through careful selection of plants that showed scant tendency to vine, growers have come up with a plant that is like a true ivy in everything but its tendency to vine.

You may have seen it pictured in one of the flower magazines, as it isn't really new, but only recently has it been easily obtainable by mail.

Bush Ivy is not to be confused with Tree Ivy. The latter is a cross between an ivy and an aralia, while the former is all ivy. And, like all ivies, Bush Ivy likes it fairly cool, very bright without direct sunlight, and should be potted in good garden soil. Keep the soil uniformly moist, and spray the foliage with tepid water as often as convenient. Top-spraying benefits almost all foliage plants, and ivies, particularly, respond to shower baths with vigorous, glossy growth.

The primary complaint of ivy growers is that the leaves dry up and feel gritty. This is an indication that the plant is infested with red spider mites, which thrive in a hot, dry condition. If your ivy, whether bush or vining, is kept as cool as possible, amply watered, and sprayed forcibly with water at least once a week, these miserable little insects won't be able to take over. I might be mistaken, but it has seemed to me that the bush type ivy is slightly more resistant to spider mites than the vining sorts. Perhaps it is just easier to spray the bush type with water, thus they never get a foothold.

Most ivies propagate readi-bly from tip cuttings inserted in any damp rooting medium. However, I have had trouble making cuttings of Bush ivy root satisfactorily unless I took a "heel" cutting, one with a piece of the main stem attached. This type of cutting (for full instructions, consult your garden encyclopedia) is frequently used when shrubs do not root readily from normal cuttings.

Questions and Answers
What is PH that I read so much about? My neighbor ascribes all my plant troubles to my having the wrong pH. I have a box labeled Bleatia; I think it's a kind of orchid. Can you tell me anything about it?

This is a terrestrial orchid which has purple blossoms in spring. It needs normal temperatures, rich humus soil, and not too much water. Give it even less water during its dormant period.

* * *
Is Bowie a pretty plant? A friend wrote that she is sending me a bulb, but she doesn't know much about it.

This member of the Lily family is commonly known as Climbing Onion. In my opinion, it doesn't amount to much except as an oddity. It has a dormant period, but the rest of the time it needs ample moisture.

What can I use in a long planter box that doesn't get any sun but is in a bright location and does have good artificial light? What soil should I use for planting? How often should plant boxes be watered? What provision should I make for draining excess water?

Many of the current books on house plants list groups of plants that do well under certain specific conditions such as you have outlined. They also suggest proper soil, watering and so on. I suggest you ask your public library to assist you in finding the answers to your specific problems, as they are too detailed and involved for me to answer through this column.

Katherine Walker will be glad to answer questions pertaining to house plants, but regrets she will be unable to answer those dealing with outdoor varieties. Send request for sources of Bush Ivy in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Appleton Firm Gets Contract For King Home

7 Electronics and Communication Sets Asked for Residents

Mares' Electronics, 1548 S. Driscoll street, has received contracts to supply and install seven electronic and communications systems in the new infirmary building at the Grand Army home at King.

These systems will include a private telephone system, program system, all call system, patients earphone system, intercom system, TV distribution system and an automatic nurse's call system.

The contracts for these systems were with the Uptown Electric company, Waupaca, the electrical contractor for this project and will total over $20,000.

Harold Mares explained that the private telephone, program and all call systems were extensions of present systems now at the home. The patients earphone system will give each patient an opportunity to listen to various forms of entertainment without disturbing other patients.

The intercom system will be used primarily in the kitchen as a food service between the kitchen and the various floors and wards. The television distribution system will provide an antenna reception in each room for receiving the four local television stations.

The automatic nurse's call system is a new system developed for hospitals by the Dukane corporation, St. Charles, Ill. This system gives the nurse or attendant instant 2-way communications with any room automatically as soon as the patient presses the emergency button, or may be used by the nurse to check on patients, give instructions, and eliminates unnecessary trips to the rooms.

This is the first system of its kind to be installed in a veterans hospital in the United States and the first of its kind to be installed in any hospital in this part of Wisconsin.

Brooks to Give Freshmen Talk

First freshman studies lecture of the semester will be given by Charles M. Brooks, Jr., the Myra Goodwin Plantz professor of art and architecture at Lawrence college, at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the Memorial Chapel. His subject will be Thoreau's "Walden."

Prof. Brooks is the executive director of the Neenah Municipal museum and is listed in the Dictionary of American Scholars. A recipient of a Ford fellowship in 1952-53, he is a member of the Wisconsin Art Education association, the American Society of Architectural Historians and an associate in the American Institute of Architects.

Credit Unions Told Movement Will Outlast 'Ballyhoo'

Green Bay — An Ohio credit union official said Friday night that the credit union movement will survive "gimicks and ballyhoo" of other credit plans because it's concerned with the total economic problems of its members.

Robert J. Kloss, Columbus, Ohio, executive secretary of the union in his state, talked to about 500 delegates at the 25th annual convention of the Wisconsin Credit Union league.

"Radical departures are being made in the field of credit programs," he said, "but the credit union movement will be needed 25 years from now as it was needed 25 years ago."

Those Extras of High Calorie Count Promote Weight Gain

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I hope you can give me a reasonable answer to a very distressing problem that has aggravated me more now than ever. I am getting past middle age, or near 51.

"At 6 I had polio, and it left me at the age of 14 with a visible evil. Dr. Molner, I am very thin and stayed that way, but otherwise have been in fair health.

"Food intake and vitamins certainly help me to feel well, but do no good so far as weight is concerned. I am of small stature and small-boned, but I should weigh more than 100 pounds at 5 feet 5."

"Doctors always said my weight would increase with time. I eat the most essential foods, but still no increase in poundage. I would be most grateful for your advice. — L.B."

Extras Needed

For every 40 (or maybe 50) letters on overweight, I receive one on underweight. So be it.

However, my advice to you is this:

First, stop saying that 51 is "getting past middle age," unless you want to hurt my feelings. That age is the prime of middle age. That's about where I am. Middle age extends to 70. After that you are elderly. Anybody over 90 has a right to claim to be old, if he chooses. If he doesn't choose, he should lie and say he is 89.

Now to the less important problems you raise. You can eat the most essential foods, but that isn't what puts on fat. What puts on fat is, first, quantity, and second, the foods that are not essential but are high in calories — starches, fats, sugars, gravies, fried foods, sweet desserts, and lots of butter on your bread.

Eating Habits

If you want to get chunky, you should have spent the last 40 years developing the habit of eating a little bit more of everything.

(Copyright, 1959)

Calorie Count

"Dear Sir: Please advise how many calories are in the following:

"One hard boiled egg, one graham cracker, one vanilla wafer. Thank you. — D.H."

(1) About 77, the nutritionists figure. (2) Around 27 calories. (3) Somewhere around 27-30 calories — but I suppose that depends on what we mean by a wafer, how much butter and sugar it contained.

Third Cousins

Mrs. H.P.: My feeling is that marriage between third cousins isn't likely to carry enough risk to make a fuss about. I don't recommend it, but I wouldn't anticipate any bad consequences.

Beset by blinding, painful headaches? If so, write me in care of this newspaper for a copy of my booklet, "How To Tame Headaches," enclosing a large, self-addressed stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of handling.

Mothers Smoking May Result in Smaller Babies

London — Expectant mothers who smoke cigarettes are likely to have smaller babies, a British doctor claimed today.

Dr. Charles Lowe of Birmingham university reported that children of smoking mothers averaged six ounces lighter than those of non-smokers.

Writing in the "British Medical Journal," the doctor said he investigated the smoking habits of more than 2,000 women in six Birmingham hospitals.

Almost all the mothers who had babies weighing nine pounds or more were non-smokers, he said. In extreme cases, he believes, the mother's smoking may cause the baby to weigh less than five pounds.

Lowe suggested that smoke absorbed into the mother's bloodstream may have a direct effect on the unborn baby in the same way that it reduces appetite in the adult.

Collins Marsh Has Waterfowl Potential

Manitowoc County Kicks Off 4,000 Acre Development for Education and Hunting Use

BY ROY F. VALITCHKA II

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Collins—Here lies duck hunting potential.

Within the boundary of Manitowoc county, bordered on the north by Highway 10 and Reedsburg, on the east by hill country, the south by County Trunk Highway JJ and west by Highway 32, is a 4,000-acre marsh with second priority in state conservation projects.

Collins marsh goes back in history to days of timbering, trapping, and hunting. Land is owned by 40 or 50 farmers over the 6-square mile area.

Land Unproductive

Today the land is unproductive except for the marsh hay cut for mink and cattle bedding. The ground has been under public hunting for more than 10 years.

Collins marsh lies in the center of the Horicon flyway. Conservation Warden Herbert Vander Bloemen said. But low bottom and present lack of water make it poor for ducks.

Vander Bloemen had long visualized a marsh project in Manitowoc county.

Educational Value

"I didn't look at it only for the hunting potential but its educational value," he said. When we wanted to educate youth in marsh and waterfowl ways we sent them to Horicon marsh. With a marsh project here, for every one sent to Horicon he can educate 25, he explained.

With state funds Vander Bloemen said some limited amounts of land in the marsh were being purchased. True developing and managing cannot come until after purchase.

With the educational point in mind, Vander Bloemen approached Manitowoc's Conservation Education, Inc. He asked the private conservation organization to take charge of money collected for the marsh project.

$20,000 Base

"I set a base of $20,000. I believe it to be equal to the educational value of the project," Vander Bloemen said.

From March through April the warden visited people and talked the project with them. Many organizations took hold of the idea and it caught fire, Vander Bloemen said. Through personal contact and talks to clubs, money came in. The county fish and game club gave $2,000. Conservation Education $1,000, smaller area units $100 and a promise of $3,000 a year for three years from Guido Rahr, Manitowoc industrialist interested in conservation.

May 14 Vander Bloemen presented the conservation department with a $5,000 check. As of Oct. 2 he has collected $11,285.67 from 270 businesses and individuals. Interested persons from other counties have helped.

Leonard Taddy, Reedsburg, heads the collection work. Edward Keip, Two Rivers, is treasurer. A crew of 10 men canvass the county gaining donations.

Minnow Harvest, Set Line Rules Now Under Study

Regulation of the minnow harvest in bass waters and of set lines is being studied by the fish and trout committee of the Wisconsin Conservation Congress headed by Edward Young of Rhinelander.

The committee has been assigned by the conservation commission to ascertain the merits of proposals to require attendance of set lines at least once during 24 hours, and to extend the kind of minnow harvest controls in small mouth bass streams that have been in effect in Manitowoc county.

funds and money from the Robertson Pittman act on sale of firearms. While money is collected, plans move ahead.

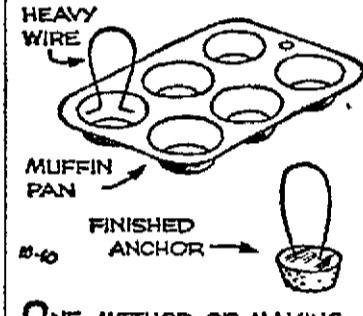

The project has been drawn up. Recent high water in the marsh showed heights water could rise in the marsh. The Manitowoc river and other creeks feed a constant supply of water. Highway JJ would be used as a dam on the south to keep water as much as 4 to 6 feet deep, Vander Bloemen said.

Natural feed abounds along creek and river beds and would spread naturally with water. Some 1,900 acres of the marsh can be filled with water forming an unbroken area with no roads or towns between.

MAKING DECOY ANCHORS

ONE METHOD OF MAKING DUCK DECOY ANCHORS IS POURING MELTED LEAD INTO MUFFIN PAN CUPS. BEFORE POURING LEAD, LOOP 12 INCHES OF COPPER WIRES, MAKING "FEET" TO STAND, AS SHOWN. TIE DECOY'S ANCHOR CORD TO THE WIRE LOOP--WHEN STORING A DECOY, SLIP LOOP AROUND ITS NECK AFTER WINDING CORD AROUND THE BODY.

The area will have 1,640 acres of edge cover and highland which will provide excellent rabbit, deer and pheasant hunting. Vander Bloemen estimates close to 500 pheasants have been planted along the edge of the marsh.

Not End of Project

Vander Bloemen doesn't look for the Collins marsh as an end but a beginning of work in neighboring Calumet county.

"A duck flying over Collins can see from the air the Kill Snake marsh two and one-half to three miles distant. Six to seven miles along is the Brillion and Potter marsh," he said.

The three are 10,000 to 12,000 acres and 4,000 to 5,000 acres in size. In aggregate the three marshes could cover an area of roughly 18,000 or more acres, Vander Bloemen says. Value of the three would be close to $20,000, he added.

"With help from neighboring counties and conservation units an additional advantage can be had in the overall development," the warden said.

Because the plan is under state supervision and funds, it would not be managed as is the Horicon marsh under federal control. Hunting pressure would determine Collins and-area control, he added.

Seek to Halt Damming Of Famed Trout Creek

Chafee Creek Downstream Waters Being Hurt by Impoundment in Wautoma Area

The conservation department hopes to renew a fight to prevent the damming of Chafee creek in Marquette county, one of the favorite trout streams of central Wisconsin, a spokesman for its biology division reported today.

The department lost the first round of the controversy earlier this year when the public service commission issued a permit to Donald H. Bintz of Wautoma to maintain a dam on the famed trout water in the town of Newton for the creation of a pond for recreational purposes. The location is about nine miles from Westfield.

Conservationists protested the construction on the ground that impoundment will warm the water in the creek and affect detrimentally trout habitat downstream.

Fish Biologists

The public service commission denied that contention, in spite of the testimony of a fishery biologist at a public hearing.

But it conceded that the creek is navigable, that wading as a part of trout fishing is an incident to navigation, and that the public interest therefore requires the provision of a public thoroughfare along the upland and adjacent to one side of the pool proposed to be built.

Chafee creek is about 15 miles long, starting from a pond in Waushara county, and running easterly into Marquette county to join Wedde creek and then the Menominee river which is the favorite of hundreds of trout on their forays into central Wisconsin.

The proposed dam would be at a point about two-thirds downstream, according to the public service commission description.

Madison — A declining market for carp and other rough fish removed by the thousands from Wisconsin lakes and streams by the conservation department is worrying the state fisheries division.

Changing dietary habits in the metropolitan centers of the east which used to provide staple markets for such fish and especially carp induce state officials to believe that the department's general revenues must be increasingly employed to subsidize the rough fish control effort if it is to be continued.

Dr. E. W. Schneberger, chief of the division, says that prices recently have fallen as low as three cents a pound. He estimates that the state must get an average of six cents a pound for its harvest to "break even."

There has been developed in recent years a market among fur farmers for some of the state's rough fish catch, and especially for Lake Winnebago sheephead, but the average price of around two cents a pound is also less than the cost of production.

The rough fishing effort is designed to improve conditions in major waters for game fish. Carp especially are detrimental to the reproduction of game fish species.

Rough Fish

The department has sometimes been under fire for what some critics call "rough fish farming", with the imputation that the enterprise is designed for profit.

Actually it has usually been subsidized to some extent. Over the years the returns from sales have amounted to about 70 per cent of the annual rough fish removal budget, and according to current market trends, it may be less than that in the future.

Five or six millions of pounds of undesirable fish are seized each year by state-employed crews and by contractors working under permit of the state department.

Game Poacher Falls From Tree; Bruises Only Hunt 'Bag'

Waupaca — The life of a game poacher can be dangerous, and one county hunter has bruises to prove it. Although he wasn't caught by wardens, he probably learned a lesson.

The story is told by a conservation worker who said he heard a rustling in the trees and expected to see a bear. He and another conservationist were surprised to see a man fall flat on the ground from the limbs above. In addition, he carried a rifle.

The conservation workers shot to the already-running poacher. The poacher took no heed and outdistanced the men.

Curly-Tailed Mallards Fly Thick as Smoke in Saskatchewan Area Sky

BY JOHN TORINUS

Post-Crescent News Service

Melfort, Saskatchewan

Duck hunting is the same all over. You are always waiting for the "northern flight."

But in Saskatchewan, there's a remedy if the flight hasn't come in. You can keep on driving north until you find the "northern ducks."

That's what Bill Riley and I have been doing this week — driving north. Finally in this area about 200 miles north of Regina we have found the big northern mallards, the ones with the curly tails.

Far North

This is in the far northern reaches of the Saskatchewan prairie region just south of the Parkland area. Most of the ducks in this province nested in the Parklands this year because of severe drought on the prairies. The overall population is down, residents say, but here there are so many ducks it is difficult to be objective. Every pothole is filled with mallards and lesser puddle species.

And at certain times of the day the flocks look like smoke in the sky as they circle over stubble fields.

Further south we saw lots of ducks too, but they are the so-called "local ducks" hereabouts, and they are smart. They've been shot at for three weeks and they're like the mallards on Green Bay — difficult to decoy, almost impossible to fool.

On the bigger waters there were divers too, but this is principally a mallard province. We had one shoot on canvasback west of Regina, but that was the only bunch we have seen.

The disappointing part of this year's Canadian trip has been the scarcity of a sharp-tail grouse — known in this area as "prairie chicken."

Saskatchewan was the last stand of good sharp-tail shooting on this continent, and now the experts are wondering if this is at an end too.

In three days of hunting in four of the province's best sharp-tail areas in the past we shot one sharp-tail. It was the only one we had a shot at too. One other covey of 10 flushed wild.

Same Story

Everywhere you go it's the same story. "There were lots here last year but we don't know where they've gone." Something like the old fishing story — "you should have been here yesterday."

A sporting goods dealer here who specializes in booking American hunting parties doesn't know where to send hunters this year who want to shoot "chicken."

Most people think the drought is responsible. One hunter said since practically no ducks nested in the prairies the crows concentrated on sharp-tail eggs.

Few Hunt

The difficulty of getting accurate information on local hunting conditions in the Pox province is a very exasperating factor. Very few natives hunt. Those that do just go out in the morning or evening for an hour and shoot ducks.

We haven't found anyone yet who has been out chicken hunting himself yet this season. Many people "heard" there was good shooting 50 miles north, or 12 miles west, but they don't know anyone who actually shot any birds.

There is a growing suspicion that ruffed grouse have gone the same way. We haven't tried hunting them yet, but the reports aren't good. It looks like Saskatchewan's reputation for grouse shooting of both varieties is at stake.

Heavy Rains

The weather here bodes no good for Green Bay area hunters. It's been in the 50's and 60's, fair and sunny since we got here. There have been forecasts of a severe cold spell further north, but it hasn't materialized. Certainly not many ducks except pos-

Green Bay — The undefeat-

Cinderella game of the week

at City stadium Sunday afternoon.

This game never was to be — at least the spotless circumstances surrounding each team. But the winner will emerge as the undisputed leader of the Western division

National Football League, and the only unbeaten team in pro football.

6-6 Record

The experts figured the 49ers and Packers to finish

fifth and sixth, respectively, in their division. The fact that they're sitting with 2-0 records throws an entirely new light on the 1959 race.

Kickoff is scheduled at 1:06

and it will be cold and windy.

A sellout crowd of 32,150—the third straight full house here

—will watch.

The Packers are the real rags-to-riches team. They were down and out a year ago with a 1-10-1 record. New Coach Vince Lombardi changed that, as the record shows.

The 49ers were winners, by comparison, what with a 6-6 record in '58 and a division title tie the year before. They, too, have a new coach—one "Red" Hickey who has fired the gold diggers to new heights.

Green Bay is favored to the tune of four points, according to the pickers. That seems strange in view of Green Bay's unhealthy background — plus the fact that the Bays have beaten San Francisco only three times in their 16 meetings.

Long Suit
Each team will be minus a regular-halfback Hugh McElhenny of the 49ers who has a broken bone in his hand and Nate Borden who has a knee problem.

The Packers will have two players handicapped by injuries—Capt. and center Jim Ringo, knee, and fullback Jim Taylor who burned his foot and hand in a home accident Tuesday night.

The 49ers' long suit is a solid offense in the hands of 12-year veteran Y. A. Tittle at quarterback. His big guns are ends

Braves Seeking 'PeeWee'?

Reese Says He's Not Interested in Managing

Louisville, Ky. — "Pee Wee" Reese said Friday night he was not interested in managing the Milwaukee Braves or any other ball club at the present time.

"I'm not ready to manage now," he said at his home here.

Reese, a coach and former star shortstop of the Los Angeles Dodgers, was questioned about a story in a Boston newspaper which said he would be the new manager of the Braves.

Reese said he knew nothing about the Milwaukee management, and had not talked with Braves officials at any time.

"I want to stay with the world's champions," he said, adding he expected to be coaching for the Dodgers again next season.

Giants Visit Cleveland in NFL Sunday

Detroit Plays Baltimore, Bears Welcome Rams

The only undefeated teams in The National Football League, Green Bay and San Francisco, clash Sunday afternoon in City stadium, with the victor moving into undisputed possession of first place in the Western conference.

Three of the five other games listed for the day are within the Eastern conference in which six teams have identical records, one win and one loss. Washington will open its home season by meeting the Chicago Cardinals. Cleveland also will lift the curtain on its home campaign by clashing with New York while Philadelphia will be at home for the second week in a row with Pittsburgh as the opposition.

The other two games in the Western conference feature the Chicago Bears opening at home with Los Angeles and Detroit inaugurating its home season in Briggs stadium with the Baltimore Colts.

Won 6 in Row

San Francisco has won its last six games with Green Bay. Not since the 1955 season have the Packers succeeded in winning from the Forty Niners.

Detroit, after two weeks on the road, will play a return engagement with the Baltimore Colts. In their first encounter the champions won 21 to 9. Last week each lost, Baltimore to the Bears and Detroit to Green Bay. In 1958 Baltimore won both games in its dash to the title. The series lead belongs to Detroit eight to five.

Washington, which scored a stunning triumph over Pittsburgh last week, will be seeking revenge from the Cardinals for the 21 to 49 reverse it suffered two weeks ago in Chicago. The Chicagoans lost to Cleveland last week to make their record the same as the Redskins. In each season since 1954 Washington and the Cardinals have split their annual series. The last named leads in the series 16 to 10.

The Bears kept themselves in the Pasadena picture Friday night with an easy 35-12 victory over San Jose State, a team that just couldn't handle Oregon runners Willie West, Dave Grayson and Cleveland Jones.

West scored three touchdowns and Coach Len Casanova said West "had one of the best nights he ever had."

Other Games

In other top games Friday night, Southern Methodist drubbed Missouri, 23-2, Utah took Brigham Young, 28-0, Tulane blanked Detroit, 25-0, Boston Univ. upset West Virginia, 7-0, and Wichita beat George Washington, 21-0.

Don Meredith and Tiley Wilemon starred in SMU's victory. Meredith passed for two touchdowns and pitched out to Glynn Gregory for a 57-yard run that set up another.

Quarterback Ken Vierra was the key in Utah's Skyline conference triumph over BYU. A slender 164-pounder, he passed for two touchdowns and tallied one himself on a 12-yard sprint.

Sophomore Terry Terribone broke loose for a brilliant 49-yard broken field touchdown run in the second quarter that broke a scoreless deadlock with Detroit. That inspired the Green Wave and Tulane rolled to an easy shutout.

3,500 Rooter Welcome Dodgers in Los Angeles

Club Promises Not To Let Fans Down Next Season

Los Angeles — (AP) — The Dodgers, back home from their World Series triumph, have promised the fans who loudly greeted them at International Airport:

"We won't let you down next year, either."

Veteran outfielder Duke Snider so voiced the Dodgers' determination to take up at training quarters in Vero Beach, Fla., next spring where they left off in Chicago Thursday.

Snider told a welcoming crowd of 3,500 last night that helping to bring the world championship to Los Angeles was "the greatest thrill of my life."

Many of the Dodgers headed for home right after a victory celebration in Chicago, but about half the squad flew here with Manager Walt Alston and owner Walter O'Malley.

Some of the players will be cashing in on public appearances, radio and television spots, and endorsements of manufacturers' products.

Dramatic Interlude

Nelson Fox Fan Gets to See Series Game—but Does It the Hard Way

Chicago — It started 11 years ago when a little gray-haired woman cheered Nelson Fox on the Lincoln, Neb., team of the Western league when it visited Sioux City, Iowa.

There was a dramatic interlude here Thursday for Mrs. Irene Brown, 58, a widowed mother of four.

After Fox became the regular White Sox second baseman in 1950, Mrs. Brown made an annual trip to watch him play at Comiskey park.

No Tickets

When the White Sox won the American league pennant, Mrs. Brown applied for World Series tickets. She got none. So she watched the first five games on TV.

Then, Mrs. Brown came to Chicago in hopes of seeing a World Series game.

She stood outside Comiskey park early Thursday for game No. 6.

Shortly, she was approached by James Kinney, 17, a high school student. He offered his employee's pass for $15. She accepted.

When she tried to use the pass, she was stopped by detectives. Police seized Kinney when Mrs. Brown pointed him out in the crowd.

Detectives took them to Thomas Liegler, operations manager at Comiskey park.

Kinney, a park sweeper, was held. Mrs. Brown got her $15 and only wept.

Mrs. Brown then pleaded her case with Liegler and Capt. John L. Sullivan of the park police detail.

She even showed them a home-made scorecard "just in case the official ones were sold out."

Finally, Liegler told Sullivan:

"John, this is one lady who is going to see the ball game, for free, as our guest."

Mrs. Brown saw the game. She and most of the 47,653 spectators didn't like the final score: Los Angeles 9, Chicago 11."

Talented Terrors Romp Over Oshkosh '11', 21-0

in 15 carries, a per-rush average of 4.73.

This was no weak-sister Oshkosh club that AHS man-handled. The Indians, picked for third by FRVC writers in pre-season ratings, had tied defending champion and title-initial play of the fourth stanza. Terror reserves played almost the entire final quarter and stopped OHS starters cold.

All the Terrors regulars had a hand in achieving the game's 1-sidedness.

The offensive line of ends Dick Wankey and Wayne Polzin, tackles Ed Felauer and Brian Zordell, guards Dick Heiss and Ron Tollefson and center Tom Kottke slashed consistent holes in the bulky OHS forward wall. Appleton was thrown for a loss on just one of 54 plays in the first three stanzas.

Eye-Openers
Defensively, corner-backer Polzin, end Dave Walter, linebacker Hietpas and end Tollefson turned in some particularly eye-opening plays.

The rest of the defensive line — tackles Zordell, Jim Manier and Larry Feistel and guard Heiss — linebacker Kent Anderson and safeties Dave LaViolette, John Taylor and Nussbaum also made it a totally unproductive night for a proven band of Oshkosh ball-carriers.

Fullback Cal Klues batted about 24 yards for the third Appleton touchdown and was the evening's top runner with 88 yards in 19 tries, a 4.63 average. LaViolette romped for 67 stripes in 10 carrier (6.7 per lug).

Using the ball-control power plays they relied on for most of their yardage throughout the game, the victors marched from their own 17 to the Oshkosh 10 in the first quarter. The Indians held, the only time they were able to stop Appleton regulars all evening.

Taylor Intercepts

A Taylor interception gave AHS the ball on the Indians' 46 as the second stanza opened. Appleton drove the distance in just six plays with Hietpas' fine jaunt of 19 yards and Klues' of 17 the big gainers. Cal just made it over Oshkosh made its only threat later in the period, getting to the Terror 12. But Nussbaum broke up a fourth-down pass in the end zone.

The league-leaders took the second half kickoff and went 73 yards in 14 plays with Hietpas hitting off right tackle for the score, as he was to do again later. A 14-yard run by Klues and a 21-yard pass from Hietpas to Nussbaum did most of the damage.

Chicago — The phone rang in the Comiskey park clubroom shortly after the Dodgers had rapped the White Sox, 9-3, to take the World Series.

Owner Bill Veeck of the Sox answered.

After a pause, Veeck exclaimed: "You lost a lot of money on this game? What about me?

"Who am I? I'm Veeck and nobody wanted to see a seventh game more than me.

"No, don't be sorry. Now we got something to shoot for next year."

And so it went.

Best Job

"I think Al Lopez did the best job of managing I've ever seen," said sport-shirt Bill. "We went a lot further than I thought we could this season.

"We simply hit disaster in the series. We were beat. They just belted us out for the count in the last game.

"I think we can beat any team in baseball, if we can keep the ball in the park. But they were hitting it over our outfielders' heads."

Veeck said he anticipated a lively trading season because of the new rule that eliminates waivers for a 3-week period in November. This means a club in one league can deal directly with a club in another league.

Won't Stand Still

"We're not going to stand still," he said. "We hope to trade as much as we can."

Manager Lopez, recently signed to boss the Sox again in 1960 for between $50,000 and $60,000, seemed more intent on congratulating the umpires and Dodger Manager Walt Alston than trying to alibi to writers.

a victory over the Cardinals and a defeat by Pittsburgh, will oppose the New York Giants in Municipal stadium in the 21st game of their series. Last year the teams met three times, including a playoff for the Eastern Conference championship and the Giants won them all. The Giants this season have won from Los Angeles and lost to Philadelphia. The series favors the Browns 11 to 8 with one tie.

Philadelphia, with a spectacular victory over the New York Giants, will oppose its old intra-state rival, Pittsburgh, for the 49th time when they clash on Franklin Field. Each has won, and lost a game. The Eagles dropped its initial game to San Francisco while the Steelers, after winning from Cleveland, lost to Washington. Last year the Steelers won both games from the Eagles. However, Philadelphia leads in the series 29 to 18 with one tie.

Interest Rate Will Hamper Sale of Bonds

Government Will be Forced to Pay More
Short-Term Costs

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Few people are noticing it, but the taxpayers of America are suffering a huge financial loss. More of their tax money will have to be used as a result of the failure of the Democratic party in the last session of congress to Lawrence permit the government to sell long-term bonds at a higher rate of interest than four and one-fourth per cent.

The Democratic national committee, anticipating the criticism that is bound to ensue, has issued through its advisory committee a statement declaring the latest offering by the treasury of 4-year-10-month notes at an interest rate of five per cent is a "bankers' bonus" and the notes would be bought largely by bankers. But it turns out that the general public and buyers outside of financial houses came flocking to the treasury to buy the new issue. The non-institutional buyers gobbled up the bonds and asked for more. They recognized that it was a good purchase, and buyers sold other things in order to obtain the money to get in on a good investment.

The tragic fact is the treasury could have sold a 10-year bond for a four and one-half per cent interest rate if congress had only authorized the treasury to use its own discretion in meeting the "market."

Higher Refund Rates
What the politicians have done by their blundering interference with the treasury is to compel the government to concentrate on issues of securities that are to mature in less than five years. This means that the government will have to pay higher and higher rates to refund or refinance in the next 12 months some $76 billion of short-term securities outstanding.

Certainly this is going to cost the government more and more. The Democratic party's advisory committee is right in claiming that this will in turn influence other interest rates on house purchases and other long-term buying. But this wouldn't have happened if the government had been allowed to finance its debt in a natural way.

The treasury is being forced to interfere in the realm of borrowing where consumers and small businessmen need credit. The government thus absorbs short-term funds that otherwise would be available to potential borrowers at lower interest rates.

The moment the politicians step in, the risks can be great and the consequences to the credit structure can be serious.

If the congress had not yielded to its low-interest zealots the treasury could gradually have reduced the amount of short-term debt that has been growing in quantity in recent years and could have put much of the borrowing on a longer-term basis. This would have stabilized the entire structure of interest rates in the United States and held inflation in check. It would have strengthened the dollar world market.

The crisis in interest rates is not confined to America. The Canadian government is selling securities at 4 per cent, and recently Britain had a 7 per cent borrowing rate at the banks. With world conditions internationally, it was a grave mistake for congress to put the treasury of the United States in a strait-jacket.

There has been some talk about a special session of the Little Theater room into congress being called to remedy the mistake made by the Democrats in refusing to accept a study hall and could be re-used for a Halloween party. The fall conference of District 27-B is being held at the Hotel Beaumont, Green Bay.

A pre-school child census will have a clearer idea of recommended by Commission the damage that has been done and will then demand and Robert Stange.

Many Years as a Missionary
The influx in the last three years of area students as well as increased city enrollments under communist rule has resulted in a grade school room shortage.

School board members, PTA, city council, planning commission and other bodies have all studied recommendations of another building or expansion of present facilities, but no decisions have been made.

A special school board committee is working with a citizens committee on school expansion problems.

Board members Tuesday discussed the possibility of transferring an entire class next year in use of the consolidated rural schools.

No Space
Brilliant President Fred Manzel said Waupaca may have to begin turning down school transfers asking consideration until space is available.

Ike's Missile Policy Called Budget-First

Administration Puts Future in Jeopardy by Cutting Requests for ICBMs, Alsop Says

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Washington — As expected, the Soviets have fired another moonshot. The pentagon response was automatic.

One of the administration experts in the election program is given above, instead of the somewhat belated sooth-saying syrup, Dr. Kriss. Funds to finance the Herbert York, added production will have to be provided in the election year budget. The signs suggest that the administration will and the Soviet Union still were "essentially in the same position" in the development of ballistic missiles. Even if congress is not overridden, the Soviet superiority in long range missile power still will be very great.

It is useless to say so. Yet it should be noted that Dr. York's statement is an offense against decency — at least if you believe that decency requires officials to give the country a reasonably accurate picture of the national situation. Here is the best forecast of what lies just ahead.

1960 — US 30 ICBMs versus USSR 100 ICBMs
1961 — US 70 ICBMs versus USSR 500 ICBMs
1962 — US 130 ICBMs versus USSR 1,000 ICBMs
1963 — US 130 ICBMs versus USSR 1,500 ICBMs

The foregoing contrast the official U. S. estimates of Soviet missile capability with the missile program presented to the last congress by the Eisenhower administration. Over bitter protests from the administration, congress provided 60 additional Atlases in 1962, and

The Hanging Of John Brown

John Brown of Osawatomie, the guerrilla captain of Bleeding Kansas and leader of the Oct. 16-18 raid on Harpers Ferry to free the slaves, was hanged on the bright balmy morning of Dec. 2, 1859. The scene of the execution of the old abolition raider was at Charlestown, then in Virginia, but soon to become Charlestown, W. Va., through the agency of a war which Brown's Harpers Ferry foray hastened.

Few men have filled as many pages of American history as this farmer-like old crusader, and none has been — or is today — more controversial. Down to this time, opinions as to his character vary almost as greatly as they did the day he was hanged. John Brown, as Edmund Clarence Stedman said, "troubled them more than ever when they nailed his coffin down."

All this is introductory to an unpublished story of the execution by an eyewitness, which, lost for more than 90 years, has recently been recovered. The author was David Hunter Strother, who is better known under his nom de plume of Porte Crayon, and who was one of the literary lights of the middle period of the last century. Strother's drawings and reports of Brown's raid and trial had been snapped up by Harper's Weekly, but because it found his eye-witness coverage of the hanging too hot to handle, his sketches and story were rejected.

The Harpers Ferry raid and the Charlestown hanging were, together, something like a lighted match tossed into a powder magazine. Within 18 months the men who hanged John Brown, the men who thought him a martyr, and the huge number of people who paid no more attention to the whole business than they had to, were making war on each other, and a snatch of verse sung to the tune of a camp-meeting hymn became a marching song for the armies in blue that would destroy slavery forever — a song known as "John Brown's Body."

Boyd B. Stutler

BY DAVID H. STROTHOR

(The author was present at the hanging as artist-writer representative of Harper's Weekly.)

On Friday, Oct. 2, the notorious John Brown was executed at Charlestown, Va., according to the sentence of the law.

It may be a matter of curiosity to the public to know how a man, whose late acts have created so much disturbance, departed himself in his last hours.

Although very guarded in his conversation on the subject, it was quite evident that up to a certain date, he indulged in the hope of a rescue or possibly a pardon. When, however, he ascertained that the Court of Appeals had confirmed the sentence, and saw the formidable military preparations made to insure its execution, there was a marked change in his manner. He became more thoughtful and serious, less dogmatic in the expression of his opinions, and somewhat softened toward those who had treated him with civility and consideration (and this included all whose official duties had brought them in contact with him during his confinement).

He expressed a disinclination to receive visitors and sent for his wife whom he had heretofore refused to see. Their meeting, which took place in the afternoon of the first of December, is represented to have been a most businesslike affair without visible emotion on either side.

Brown's Exactness

On the morning of the 2nd, Brown sent for an eminent legal gentleman of Charlestown to write his will, or rather a codicil to a former will disposing of some property which had been overlooked. His manner then was cold and stony, his discourse altogether of business. After the completion of the writing, he enquired sharply and particularly about a dollar which had been mentioned in one of his letters but which had not come to hand. He was assured that all the money enclosed in letters had been delivered to him. This he insisted was an error.

Brown at length informed his visitor that in consideration of the service just rendered in writing his will, he might keep the dollar.

This the lawyer politely but peremptorily declined, as he intended to accept no remuneration for what he had done.

Mystery Cleared

The letter was produced. In the body of the writing the enclosure of the dollar was named, but on the margin it was noted in pencil that it had been withdrawn and sent to his wife. Thus was the mystery cleared up, to the very great apparent satisfaction of the old man. An hour after he was call-above the elbows, leaving the forearms free. The driver with two others occupied the front seat while the jailer sat in the after part of the wagon. I stood with a group of half a dozen gentlemen near the steps of the scaffold when the prisoner was driven up. He wore the same seedy and dissipated dress that he had at Harpers Ferry and during his trial, but his rough boots had given place to a pair of particularly slippers and he wore a low crowned broad brimmed hat (the first time I had ever seen him with a hat). He had entirely recovered from his wounds and looked decidedly better and stronger than when I last saw him.

Unchanged Attitude

As he neared the gibbet his face wore a grim and grisly smirk which, but for the solemnity of the occasion might have suggested ideas of the ludicrous. He stepped from the wagon with surprising agility and walked hastily toward the scaffold, pausing a moment as he passed our group to wave his pinioned arm and bid us good morning.

He mounted the steps of the scaffold with the same alacrity and there, as if by previous arrangement, he immediately took off his hat where several old pins were quilted in. The sheriff took the pin and completed his work.

His Last Words

He was accordingly led forward to the drop, the halter hooked to the beam and the officers, supposing that the execution was to follow immediately, took leave of him. In doing so, the sheriff enquired if he did not want a handkerchief to throw as a signal to cut the drop. I

Brown replied, "No, I don't care; I don't want you to keep me waiting unnecessarily."

These were his last words, spoken with that sharp nasal twang peculiar to him, but spoken quietly and civilly, without impatience or the slightest apparent emotion.
